The Delphic

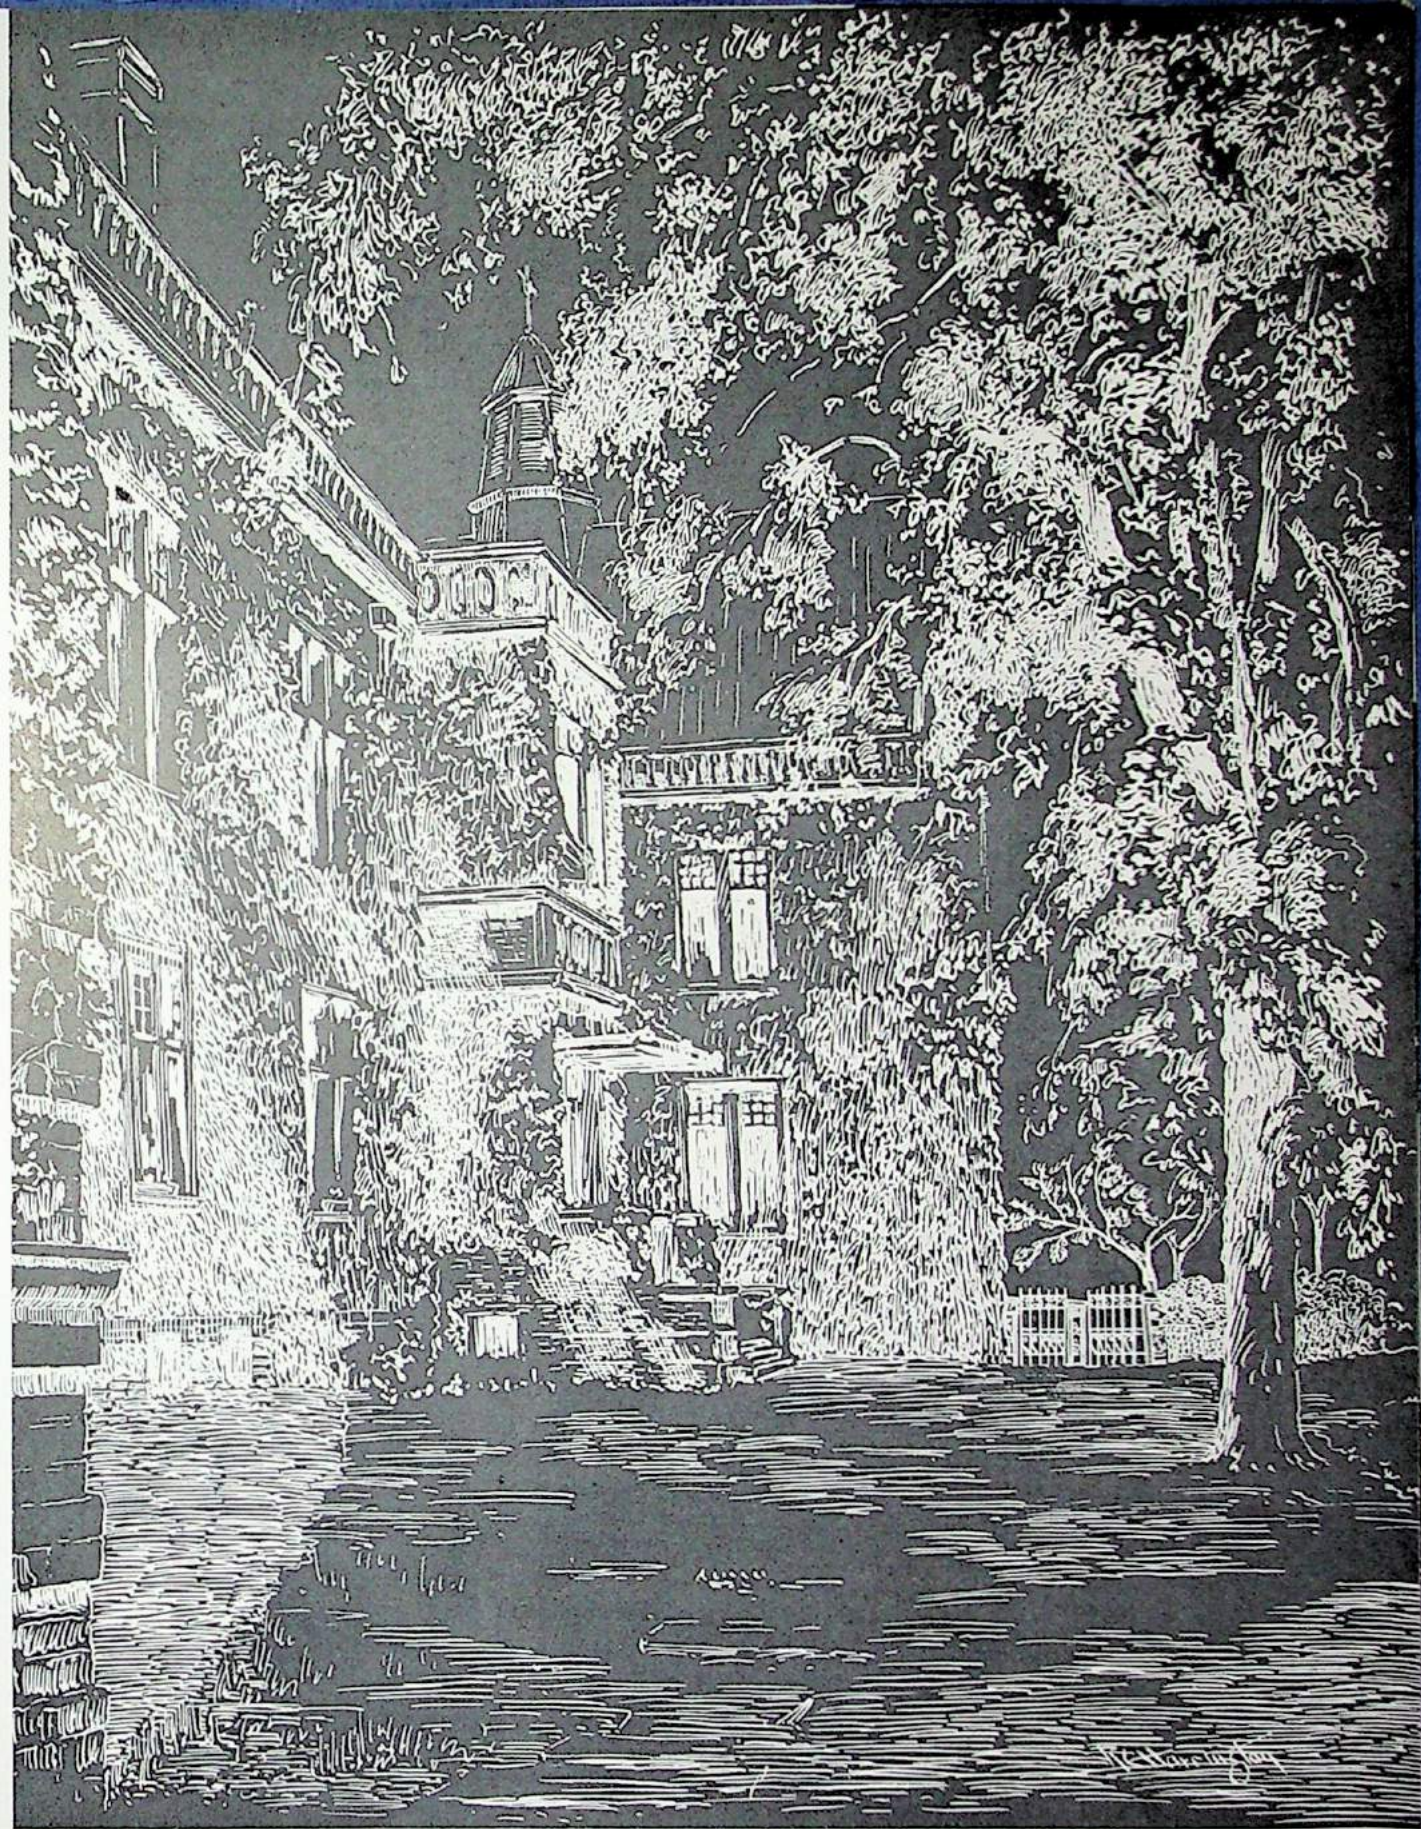

St. Helen's Hall
Portland, Oregon

1947-1948

FOREWORD

Learning to understand each other, working and playing together in the spirit of true fellowship, as we of 1948 near the end of our sojourn at St. Helen's Hall, we naturally long for a future molded by the same happy ideals. Fellowship in our daily lives logically leads to a desire for world peace, for true it is that "What you are to be you are now becoming."

The value of this point of view is recognized and applied in all student life here at "the Hall." Mindful of this, let our goal be to practice fellowship while at school and throughout our lives, that we may aid in the attainment of lasting peace for all.

"Crowned with turrets, decked with ivy, Stands she like a queen."

A MESSAGE FROM BISHOP DAGWELL

I count it a privilege to have a parting message in the Delphic for the Senior Class of 1948. You graduates have made a definite contribution to the tradition of St. Helen's Hall. Your experience here, your influence and your memories will become a part of the written and unwritten history of a venerable educational institution.

As you have come in and out of the school during the years past, you have made ties and formed attachments for classmates and teachers. Unconsciously you have come to accept each other as friends bound together by the community of interests which you have experienced in this critical period of your life. May you keep alive these friendships and interests in one another and keep warm your affection for St. Helen's Hall. This is my fervent hope and prayer. We who are charged with the task of maintaining and strengthening the Hall ask your prayers and support when your relationship passes from that of students in school to alumnae of St. Helen's Hall.

Faithfully yours,

Benjamin D. Dagwell, D. D.,

President of the Board of Trustees.

SENIORS

THE CLASS OF 1948

The activities and responsibilities attached to the Senior year are always eagerly awaited by the undergraduates, and so it was with enthusiasm that the girls of the Class of '48 assumed their new roles in the fall.

The first undertaking was the production of "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," at the Junior Carnival. On the more serious side came the presentation of the class play, "Letters to Lucerne," and the work of preparing the Delphic.

Plans then went ahead for the Silver Tea, skip day, and the presentation of the class gift.

Officers were Harriet Bouvy, President; Dale Smith, Vice-President; Anne King, Treasurer; Lee Winterbotham, Secretary, with Mrs. Luceil Osvold as adviser.

CLASSES

The Junior Class of St. Helen's Hall should be an active and successful one, and the Juniors of this year, aided by their adviser, Mrs. Faith Fors, have endeavored to measure up to this standard.

Outstanding among their projects was the management of a gala Junior Carnival, in which all departments of the school participated. A percentage of the proceeds was set aside for charitable purposes.

The class won first place in the Community Chest drive. Members were active in athletics, and played a vital part in student government affairs.

Elaborate plans were made for the Junior-Senior Prom, to be held at the Masonic Temple in honor of the graduating class.

In addition to these school activities, the Juniors have enjoyed numerous social events among themselves. Their program has included two class dinners, a ski trip week-end at Timberline Lodge, and a beach week-end.

JUNIORS

Row 1—Nancy Salt, Treasurer; Nancy Sigurdson, Secretary; Julie Franchere, Diane Dawson, President; Marliss Lockwood, Rosemary Hermo, Ann Ellsperman, Vice-President.

Row 2—Betty Davidson, Veneeta Cowley, Susan Raelinson, Sally Rose, Naney Collins.

Row 3—Annette Pfenning, Cynthia Fish, Margie Faulkner, Carolyn Averill, Betty Schoolmaster.

Absent—Pat Schroll.

The enthusiasm and energy of the Sophomores, under the guidance of their adviser, Mrs. Janet Easterday, enabled them to contribute much to the success of the school activities this year.

Their first undertaking, early in the fall, was the sale of home-made candy. Then, at the Junior Carnival, they branched out into fortune-telling, predicting extraordinary careers for fascinated patrons, beside managing a cake-walk and selling various and sundry edibles.

Next they took in their stride the editing of the Halttonian, packed with lively news for the student body, and planned an assembly program, an all-school dance, and other events.

The class invited Miss Jean Barnes of the Class of 1939 to speak to the girls on her experience in teaching Japanese to American soldiers in Yokohama during the war.

Any group which shows pep and spirit such as that of the Sophomores is certainly going places.

SOPHOMORES

Row 2—Jackie Thomas, Ann Cannon, Sergeant-at-Arms; Ann Butterfield, Betty Coats, Judy Reglien, Nancy Fisher.

Absent—Donna McLean.

The Freshmen made history this year by holding a joint dance with Catlin freshmen on January 9 in Seadling Hall. It was the first time the two schools had ever held a social event together.

At the Junior Carnival they showed their business ability by making a great success of the sale of a remarkable collection of once-prized lampshades, jewelry, china and the like, assembled under the classification of "white elephants." The gay carnival hats which they made and sold added much to the festive air of the evening.

The "Frosh" gave the other classes stiff competition in basketball although the game was entirely new to most of them. They won first place in the Red Cross campaign, coming through with a 100 per cent record.

With the aid of their adviser, Mrs. Evelyn Gearhart, the girls have proved themselves fully capable of becoming future leaders at the Hall.

FRESHMEN

Row 1—Diane Drumb, Secretary; Margaret Brandon, Cynthia Adamson, President; Sandra Wolff.

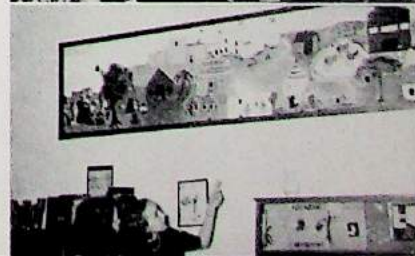

Row 2—Barbara Burkitt, Nancy Callaway, Rica Hussa, Renan Hagens, Treasurer.

Row 3—Elaine Sabin, Roberta Knight, Shirley Urban.

The Eighth Grade has shown fine leadership in Hood School projects. Their chief undertakings, carried out under the supervision of their adviser, Miss Ruth Jackson, have been in the nature of service work for the school.

They have taken the lead in choral work in the chapel, and a glee club composed of girls from the class has sung at the Shrine Hospital and in the high school Christmas program. The girls have decorated their class room and also the Hood School library with murals, working under the direction of Mrs. Dorothy Roy, art teacher. They have made several field trips in connection with their study of Oregon history.

Various social activities have added enjoyment to the program, the final one being the graduation dance, at the end of a very successful year.

ACTIVITIES

STUDENT BODY

Our student government has been carried on successfully under the direction of the Student Council. Representatives of the Hall took an active part in the conference of student body officers of the independent schools of the Northwest, held in the fall at our school and at Catlin School jointly.

Initiation of the new girls, our week-end at Gearhart sponsored by the Mothers' Club, the fall formal dance, the Christmas party, the May Fete and May Fete dance—these were some of the special events on the calendar. Drives in behalf of the March of Dimes, the Community Chest and the Red Cross were among our undertakings for charitable purposes.

Fine spirit has been shown throughout the Student Body affairs. We appreciate the assistance of our adviser, Miss Elizabeth Anderson, Principal of the Hall.

Technical assistants were: Frances Huffschildt, Property Manager; Mary Lou Rose, Stage Manager; Sally Stanley and Adele Wilkinson, Stage Crew. Kathryn Huenergard and Marie Natemas handled tickets; ushers were Mary Orr and Rosemary Roth, and Irma Jacobs took care of publicity. Miss Marian Johnson directed the play.

MAY FETE

*Anne King, Jacqueline Greene, Shirley Barton,
Diane Bekins, Mistress of Ceremonies; Harriet
Bouvy, Queen; Dale Smith, Frances Huffschiidt, Sally Stanley.*

One of the most beautiful and festive occasions which takes place annually at the Hall is the May Fete, when, for an evening of entertainment the May Queen reigns with the six princesses chosen from the Senior Class.

This year Queen Harriet Bouvy and the court enjoyed joint presentations of the Glee Club and the Drama Department. On the following evening this joyous occasion was climaxed with a formal dance.

In serving the school, members of Helénas do the daily chapel work, and when our Rector is absent they conduct the service. The club is also helping to care for a French orphan, and in March presented a movie in order to raise money for this project. Under the direction of the adviser, Mrs. Ferne Epler, Helénas has been of assistance wherever possible.

The G. A. A. has always done much toward promoting an active interest in sports. This year has been no exception, and lively participation in basketball and volleyball, in skiing, swimming and horseback riding, in tennis and baseball has resulted.

The club has also enjoyed numerous other activities, managed by its officers with the cooperation of their adviser, Miss Colleen Cook. They produced a play, "On the Air", for an assembly, and sold candy at the Junior Carnival.

A committee composed of club members has been appointed to handle the scheduling of games in 1948-1949.

The good times we had on the ski trips to Mt. Hood will never be forgotten.

This year's Seniors who were veteran members of the Ski Club took the lead in arranging so that all those in school who desired might participate in skiing throughout the season, rather than having a program for Juniors and Seniors only, as formerly. Under this plan, we had six Saturdays at Government Camp and three at Timberline, with Bob Donelson as instructor. The Ski Club, composed of upper classmen only, also enjoyed a special week-end at Timberline.

Both basketball and volleyball were taken up this year with an enthusiasm which lasted to the end of the season. Class teams played fast and spirited games, and the girls also participated in city tournaments.

The most exciting action in the Freshmen-Sophomore basketball series came in a contest which resulted in the score of 16-11 in favor of the Sophs. Seniors led at the end of the hoop games, with Juniors second, followed by Sophomores and Freshmen.

In volleyball, the Juniors and Seniors were very closely matched in strength. The score of their last game was 32-33, the Seniors winning and taking the series also.

Two basketball teams of Hall girls were sponsored by parents in the Park League tournament. The Christies and the Cookies, as they were called, placed second and third respectively in the Island League, after three contests held to decide a tied score. In the Portland Volleyball tournament, two teams, the Hallites and the Volleying Vixens, both sponsored by parents, did fine work.

TREASURES of the American People

AS you treasure graduation day your thoughts may travel back through the years. Let us extend happy thoughts now for a graduation gift to last a lifetime. Oriental rugs provide a simple, natural, fundamental background for gracious living. They are colorful, yet easy to live with; vibrant, yet restful; luxurious, yet not gaudy. In any home they are ever in good taste. There is a rug for every period of decorative art—for the ornate traditional periods to our present day modern. We are proud to offer the largest selection since the war. At Cartozian Bros. we invite your inspection.
