The Delphic

*St. Helen's Hall
Portland, Oregon
1946 - 1947*

FOREWORD

To all the girls of St. Helen's Hall, those whose years with their Alma Mater are past, the girls of the present, and those yet to come, we dedicate this issue of The Delphic, with the hope that it may serve as a reminder of milestones past and of inspiration gained, speeding progress along life's way.

In the mind's eye they pass in long procession, these girls of St. Helen's—girls in crinoline, stepping out in horse-and-buggy style; girls writing on slates; girls in middy blouses; girls of this air-age with its split atoms and V-2's; and then the girls just ahead, in the future of which we dream; all of them girls of high hopes, girls who look forward and take their part bravely in a changing world. St. Helen's, as "mater" and guide to them, unites them in bonds of affection and points their pathway to the clear thinking and true living which make what the poet has called our "bright tomorrow."

May our memories of days at "the Hall" and the vision gained there of future goals, be as beacon lights forever glowing on our advancing way.

*Lift the chorus, bear it onward,
Sing we one and all:
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail St. Helen's Hall!*

CHAPEL

The sun streams in the chapel windows. The organ notes echo a soft "Amen." Blue-veiled girls reverence the altar and file out behind the cross.

Chapel is over for another day, and the sense of well-being which the simple service leaves with the girls starts them out in a restful and happy frame of mind.

There is nothing elaborate about chapel at St. Helen's Hall, but it makes the troubles of the day seem less apparent to all of us.

An active and well-organized class, the Juniors forged ahead this year with Mary Orr as President; Harriet Bouvy, Vice-President; Ann Adams, Secretary; and Anne King, Treasurer. Their most ambitious undertaking was the Junior Carnival, which, with the cooperation of the other classes, they made the largest in the history of the school. Our memories of the enjoyment of that evening will be treasured along with those of the Junior-Senior Prom.

Another achievement of the class was the winning of first place in the campaign for contributions to the Infantile Paralysis Fund.

The Juniors and their adviser, Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, have accomplished much, and have had a wonderful time doing it.

Row 1—Peggy Kuhns, Anne Thompson, Gloria Spencer, Secretary; Mary Lou Rose, President; Marilyn Coleman, Vice-President; Jean McLean, Treasurer; Amaryllis Lilles, Janet Banks.
 Row 2—Charnelle Boring, Dorothy Hays, Suzanne Polsky, Bhradde Mae Schmand, Maralyn Manning, Jo Ann Orput, Elizabeth Morley.
 Row 4—Barbara Freeman, Diane Bekins, Betty Charlton.
 Absent—Bette Ankelis, Maxine Boone, Frankie Faw.

The Sophomores achieved special distinction this year with their Valentine Formal. Clever decorations, a varied program, and fine music made it most enjoyable.

Mary Lou Rose is President; Marilyn Coleman, Vice-President; Gloria Spencer, Secretary; and Jean McLean, Treasurer. The Sophomores contributed their share to the success of the Junior Carnival by providing refreshments. Their good times included a week-end at Everglades, with several of the parents, and their adviser, Miss Helen Rands, accompanying them.

The Freshmen do things with a vim that promises well for their future at the Hall. Playing softball, swimming, poring over lessons in study hall, or whatever they may be doing, they are always a "peppy" lot. They were responsible for dispensing the great quantities of popcorn which were consumed at the Junior Carnival. They have also taken their important part in the various campaigns conducted in the school during the year, aided by their adviser, Mrs. Faith Fors.

In the fall they gave an entertaining skit in assembly, under the direction of Mrs. Helen R. Snipper, their English teacher, who also accompanied the girls on a week-end of skiing, when they occupied a cabin on Blossom Trail.

EIGHTH GRADE

Row 1—Diann Swift, Susan Gordon, Alice Krumrey, Martha Stearns, Anne Ferris, Marilyn Bernstein, Joan Gordon.

Row 2—Joanne Schantin, Jacqueline Thomas, Lee Anne Burkitt, Betty Coates, Norma Heyser, Sondra Randolph, Adelaide Woodruff, Mary Liesman, Naomi Johnson.

With Miss Ruth N. Jackson as supervisor, the seventh and eighth grades have had a pleasant and successful year. Among the special highlights were a semi-formal dance on Valentine's Day and a week-end at Seaside.

The two grades have sent many packages of food and clothing to a French girl of about their age, Michelle Van Geit, whose family suffered severely because of the war.

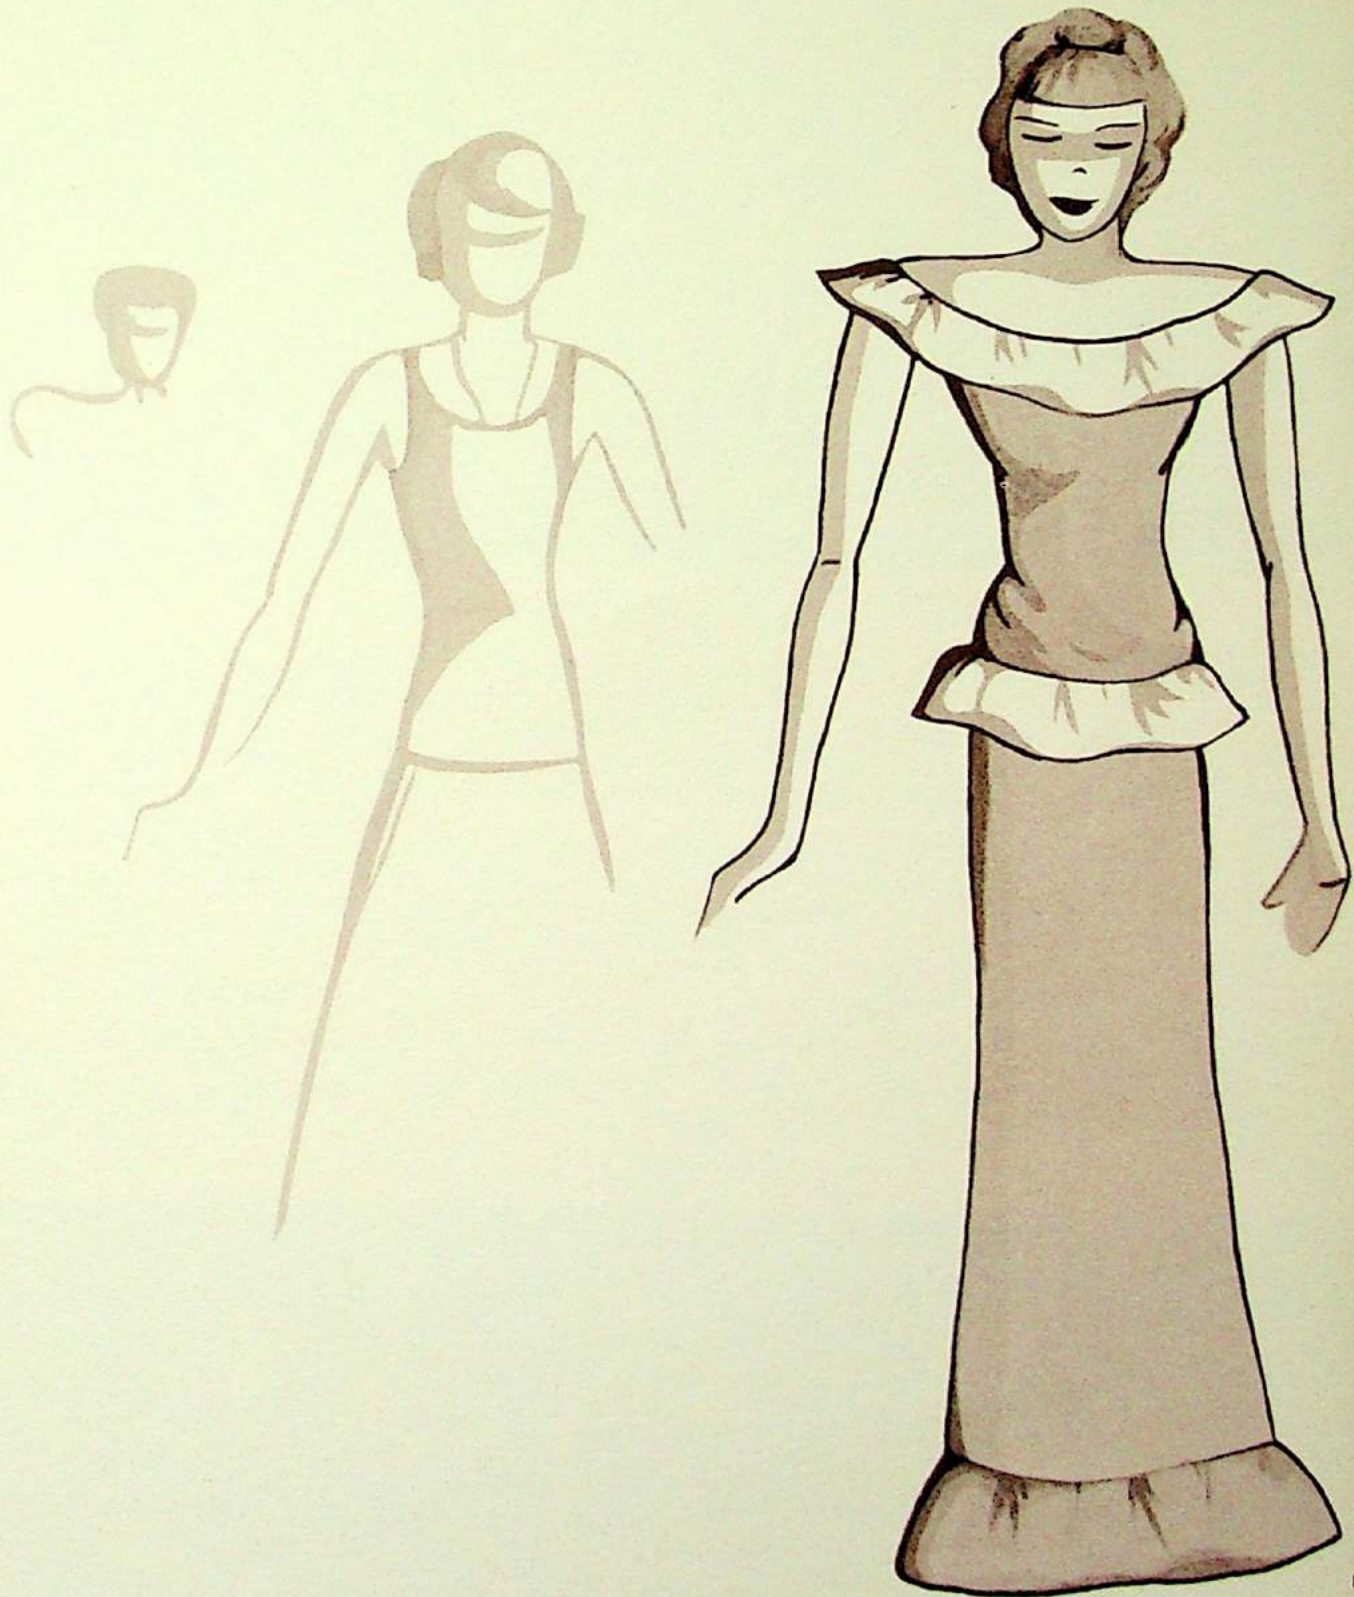

Anne Ferris is President of the eighth grade; Marilyn Bernstein, Vice-President; Norma Heyser, Secretary; and Martha Stearns, Treasurer. Miss Jackson is adviser. In the seventh grade, Barbara Burkitt is President; Margaret Brandon, Vice-President; Cynthia Adamson, Secretary; Roberta Knight, Treasurer; Rica Husa, Student Council Representative; Renan Hagens, Red Cross Representative; and Miss Elizabeth Timmons, adviser.

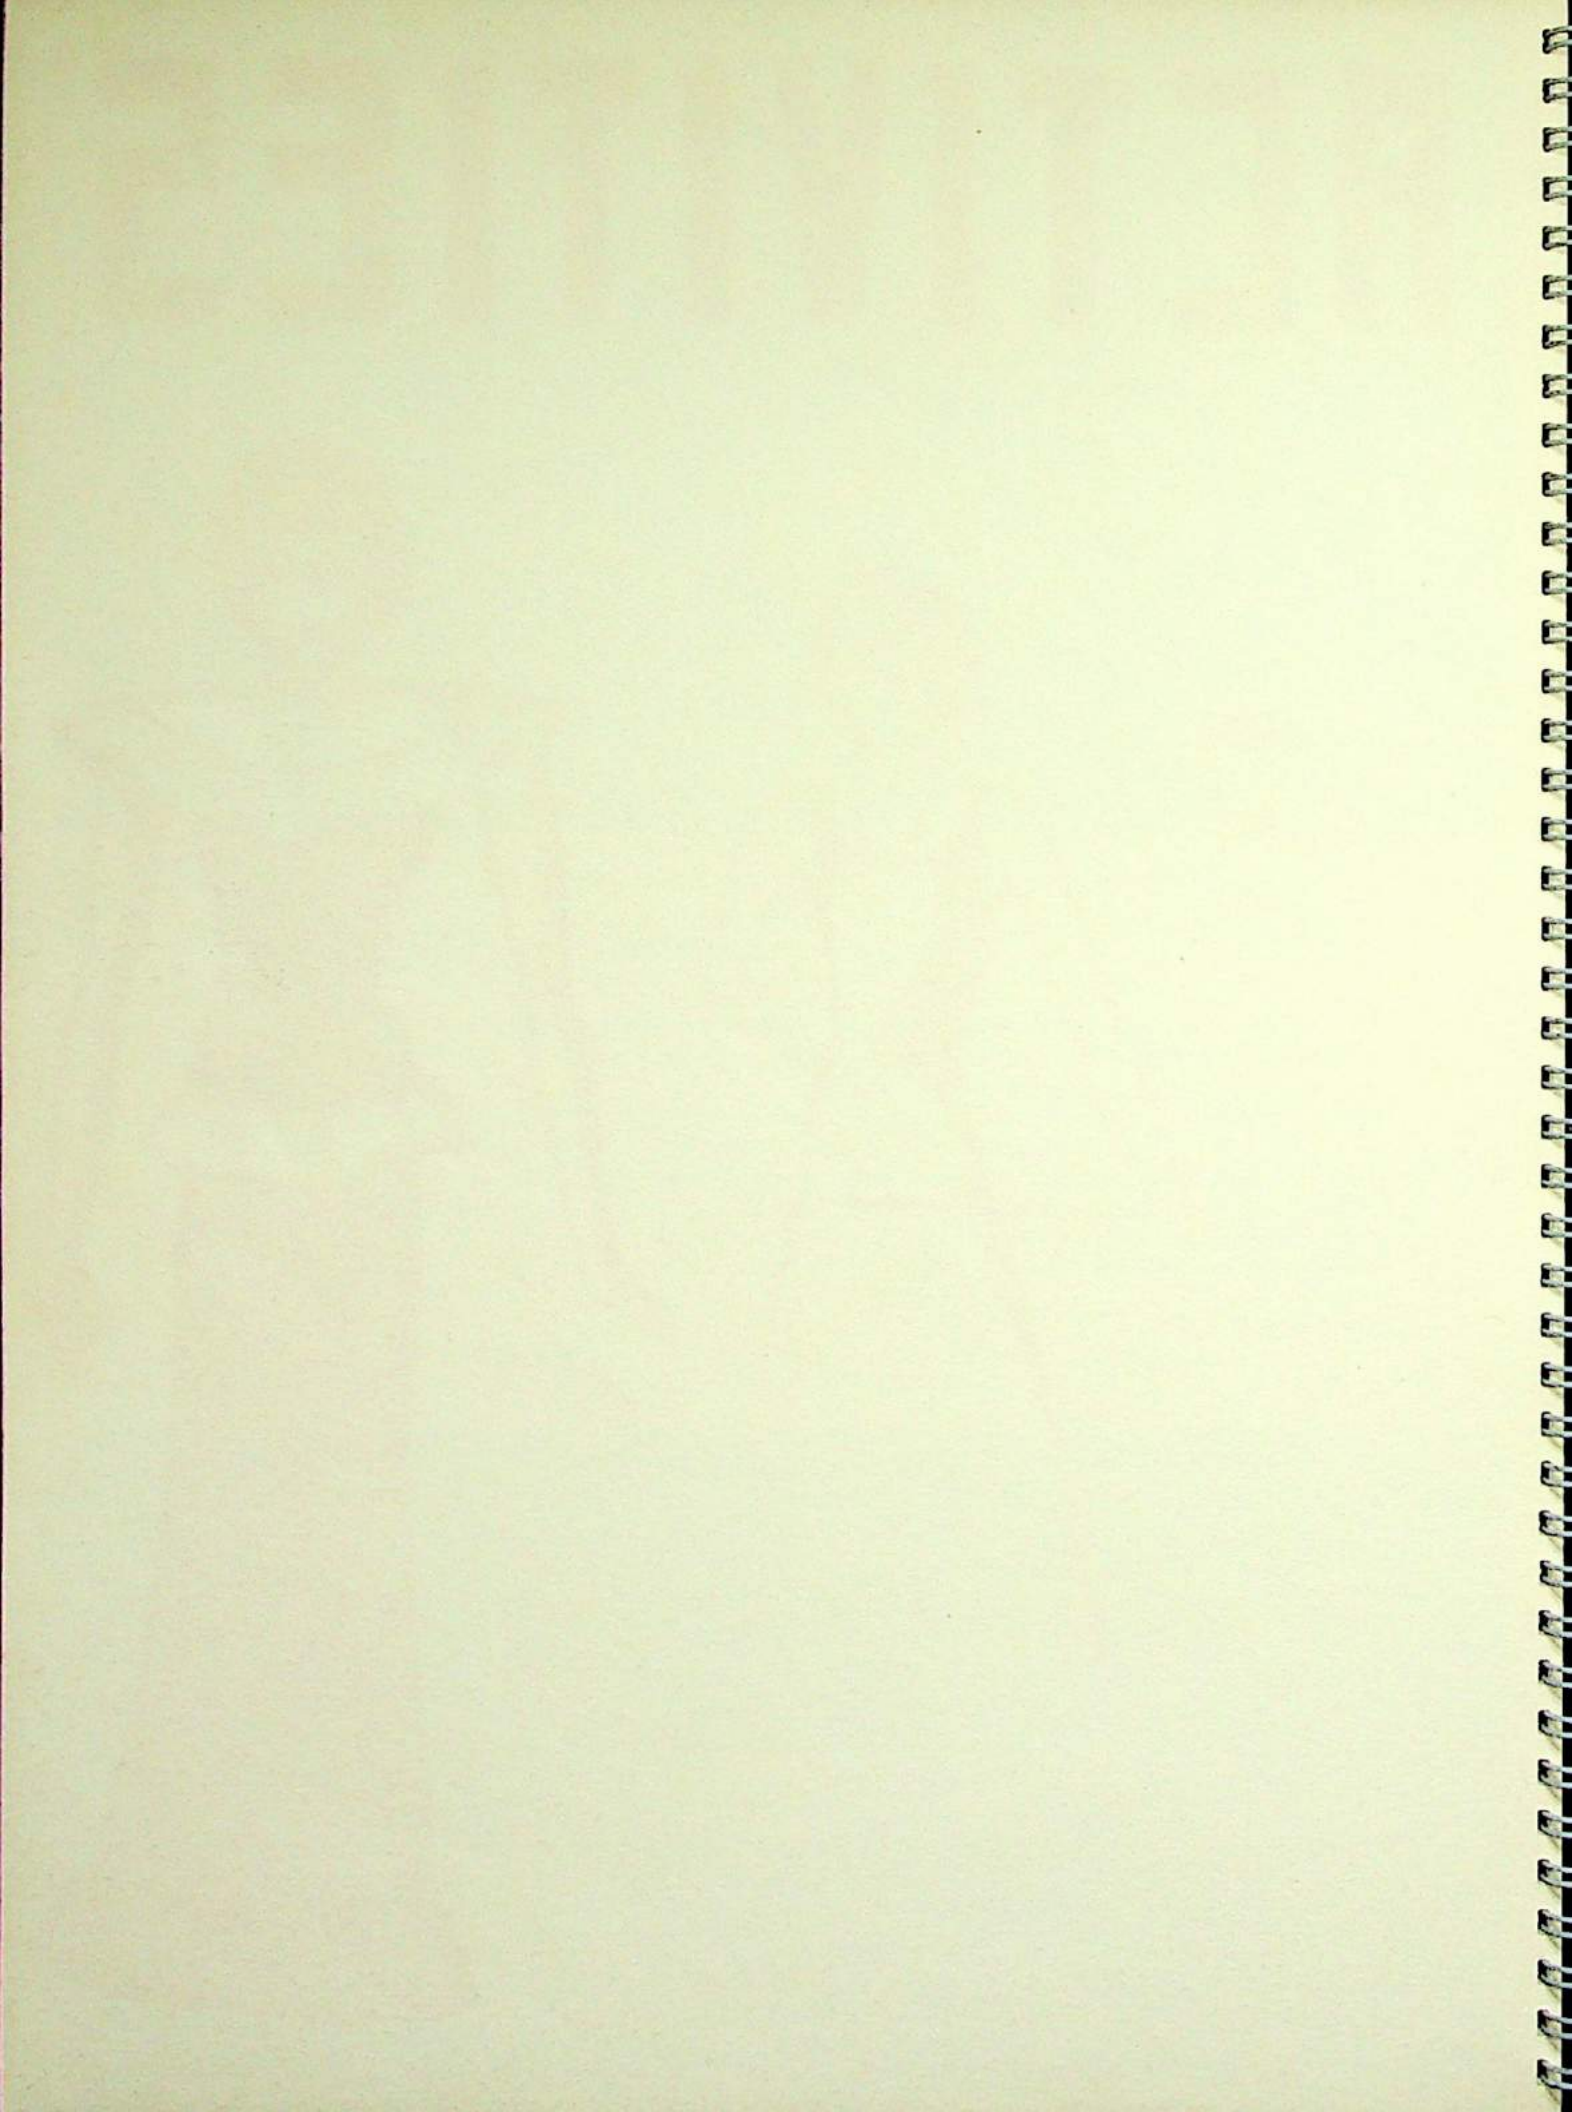

Row 1—Roberta Knight, Margaret Brandon, Barbara Burkitt, Cynthia Adamson, Shirley Urban.

SEVENTH GRADE

ACTIVITIES

STUDENT BODY

Our student body activities, with emphasis on self-government and efforts to promote the welfare of the school as a whole, fill a most important place in the school year.

Carrying the program through the fall were Sally Mount as President; Pat Pargeter, Vice-President; Betty Charlton, Secretary; and Dolores Kitt, Treasurer. After the initiation of new girls was over, the entire school combined efforts, first on the Junior Carnival, and then on the Christmas program, given on the day preceding the Christmas vacation.

With the beginning of the new term, the spring council took the lead. Ann Wilkins was elected President; Anne King, Vice-President; Mary Lou Rose, Secretary; and Carolyn Coleman, Treasurer. Contributions were made for European relief through the heifer campaign. A talent assembly April 30 and the May Fete and May Fete dance were among the outstanding events of the spring.

MAY FETE

It is agreed by all that the Hall spring season is the climax of the year, and the May Fete is the climax of the social events of the spring. This year the May Court, led by Queen Ann Muir in white, with the princesses lovely in their identical pink and blue formals, shared with the large audience the enjoyment of an especially fine program.

We laughed over the tribulations of "Mrs. Harper," "Mrs. Cunliffe," the movie star, "Honey Walters," and the rest of the company in the play, "Mrs. Harper's Bazaar," which the drama class gave. We enjoyed the singing of the Glee Club and the members of the sextette as they coyly fluttered their Chinese fans. And we followed with bated breath the fortunes of "The Dancing Sisters," presented by the ballet class. It was a program we shall not soon forget.

The following evening the May Fete formal dance was held in the gymnasium.

HELÉNAS

Helénas, service honor organization of the Hall, has carried on varied activities this year, with the aim of accenting the spirit of true progress in the school life.

The cross-bearer and the ushers at the daily chapel service are Helénas members, for this group is responsible for the numerous duties in connection with the care of the chapel.

This year the members undertook sending gift boxes each month to a French girl whose family had suffered greatly from the war, and to help finance the project, gave a benefit movie show early in the year. The Helénas have served at teas, cared for the school trophies, and generally have stood ready to help wherever possible.

Sally Mount is President; Beverley Hershey, Vice-President; Janet Banks, Secretary; and Miss Helen Rands, adviser.

LATIN CLUB

All is not merely "vinco, vincere, vici, victus," and the like in the Latin classes these days. Caesar and his legions refuse to stay within the pages of Latin books, and so a Latin Club has been organized in which the "dead" language may take on life. At the meetings the members conduct programs which they organize themselves. These have featured the ancient myths, stories from the Odyssey, readings from Shakespeare's Julius Caesar, and similar subjects.

Officers for Latin I are Shirley Barton, President; Gerry McKendree, Vice-President; Betty Schoolmaster, Secretary; and Sally Rose, Treasurer. For Latin II: Joanne Fitzmaurice, President; Jean Dalin, Vice-President; and Evelyn Powell, Secretary. Mrs. Mary Wakefield is adviser.

 Pianists—Betty Schoolmaster, Sarah Skinner.

The Glee Club, composed of picked voices, and ably directed by Mrs. Fern Epler, has been very active this year. An elaborate Christmas program was presented jointly with the Junior College and the Lower School. The club participated in two radio programs in cooperation with Hill Military Academy. It has furnished incidental music on various occasions at the Hall and gave a most enjoyable spring concert.

Six of the girls, Jill Chisholm, Peggy Kuhns, Shirley Barton, Lois Nordberg, Berniece Micka, and Jo Orput were selected to form a sextette, to sing special numbers.

 Row 2—Suzanne Gillen, Sally Stanley, Charnelle Boring, Diane Dawson, Kathryn Huenergard, Dorothy Hays, Beverly Fanning.

 Row 4—Lee Winterbotham, Sara Skinner, Marjean Walter, Elizabeth Morley, Nancy Sigurdson, Phyllis Russell.
 Absent—Maralyn Manning.

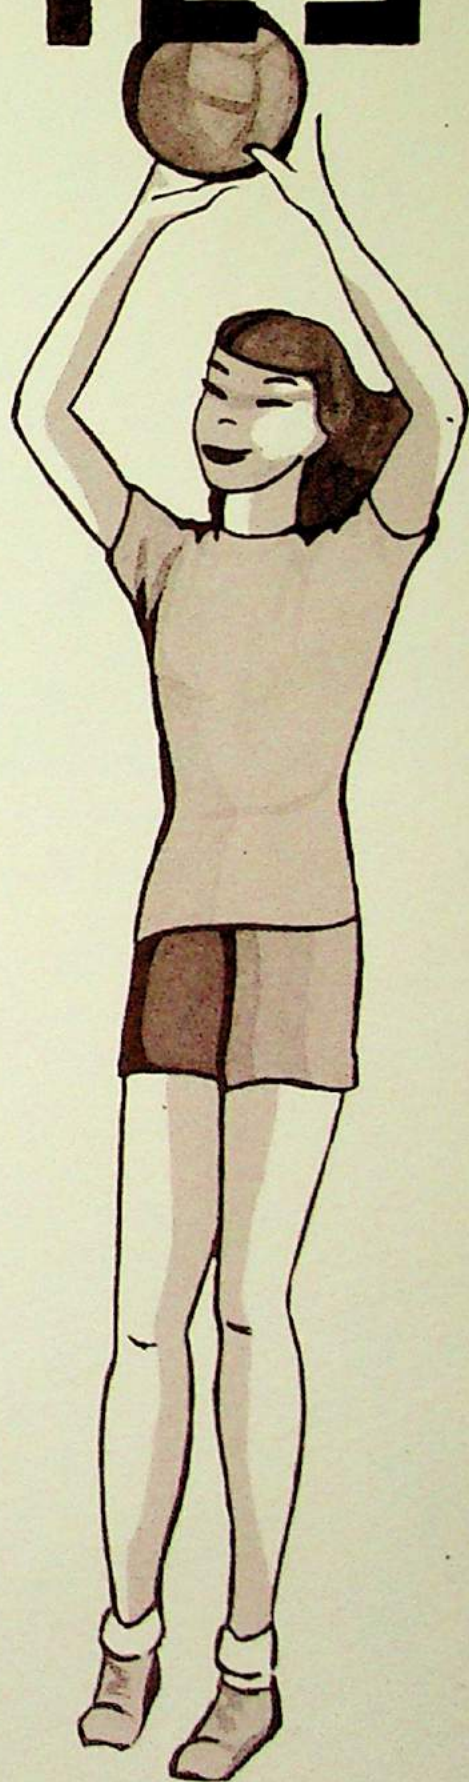

SPANISH CLUB

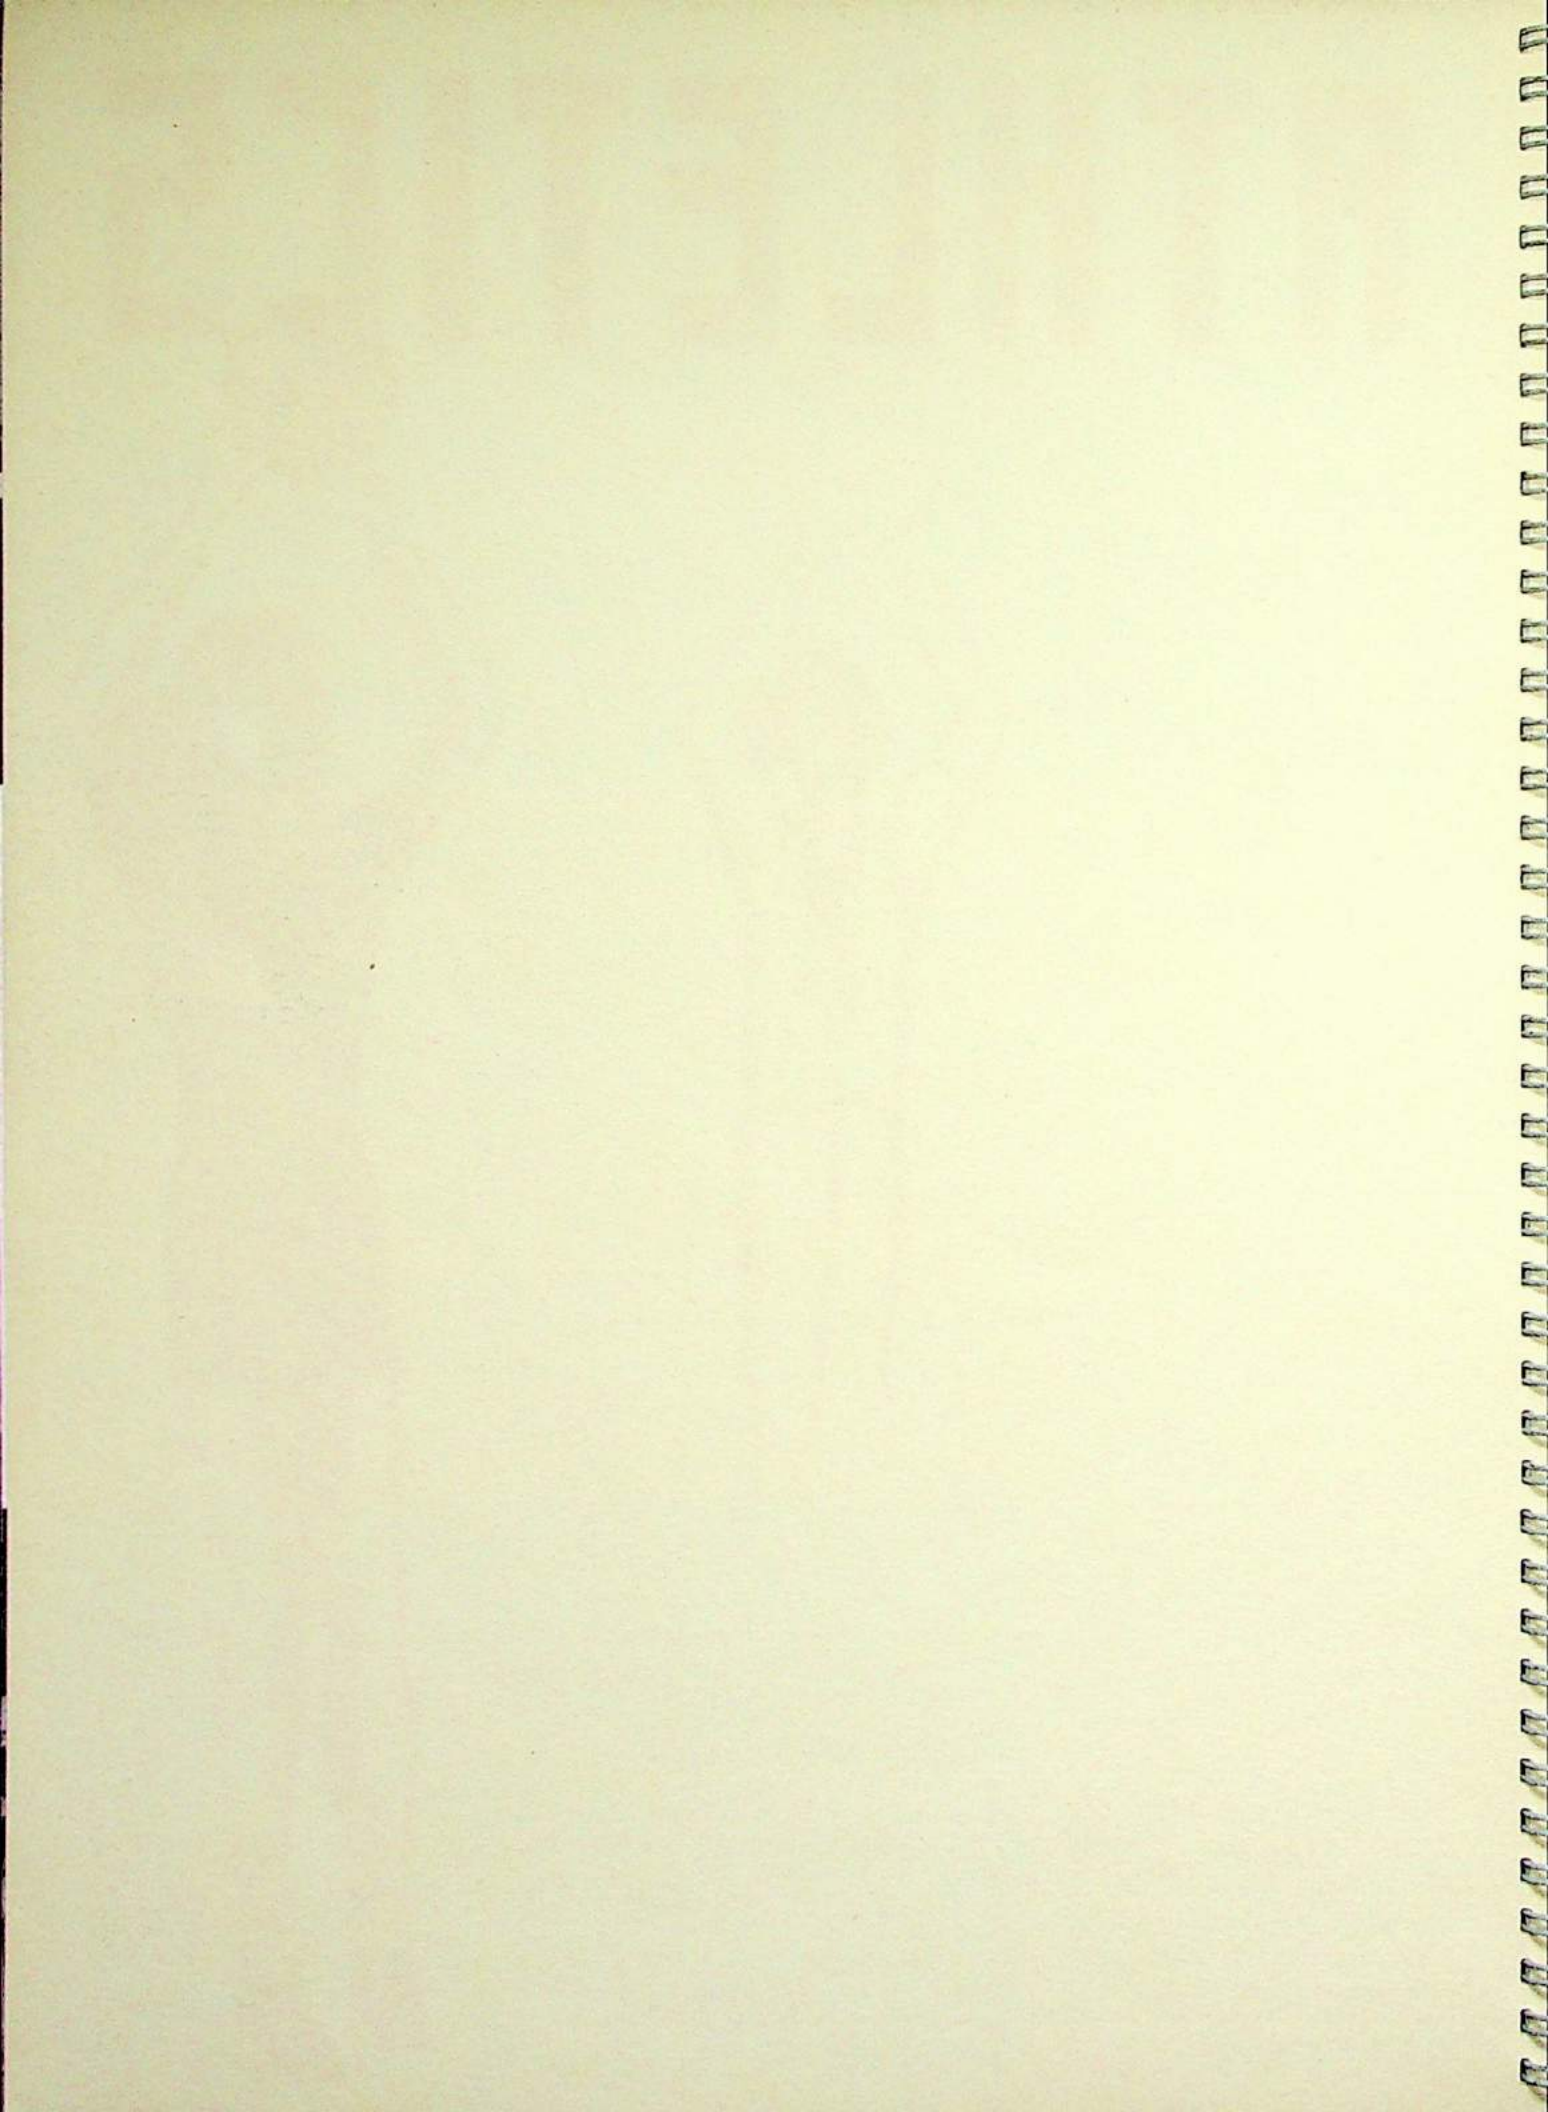

"El Sombrero de Tres Picos" has had an active program this year. After a week of pledging, a formal initiation and dance was held in Scadding Hall on November 16. Colorful leis, bracelets, and earrings made by the members were sold at the Junior Carnival, and a Spanish assembly was given in the spring for the enjoyment of the student body. Finally, winding up a year of fun, came a lake party in the middle of May.

Barbara Freeman has been President this year, Rosemary Roth, Vice-President; Susan Hunt, Secretary; Jacqueline Greene, Treasurer; Sally Stanley, Sergeant-at-Arms, and Marjean Walters, Keeper-of-the-Cup. Mrs. Helen R. Snipper is adviser.

ATHLETICS

Row 1—Anne King; Janet Banks, Secretary; Beverley Hershey, President; Pat Andrews, Vice-President; Berniece Micka, Treasurer.

Row 3—Rosemary Roth, Anne Thompson, Jo Orput, Pat Thompson, Betty Schoolmaster, Nancy Collins, Diane Dawson.

Absent—Shirley Barton, Lee Winterbotham.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Promoting better sportsmanship has been the goal of the Girls' Athletic Association this year, and judging from our clean sports and healthy girls it seems that the job has been well done.

Two formal initiations were held, one in January and one in March, with the result that the membership is at a new high level. To join, the girls must not only earn points in physical education, but must also measure up to high standards in loyalty, ambition, sportsmanship, and other qualities which make a good all-around girl for a good all-around club.

In every way the club has taken strides forward this year. A special highlight was the spring informal dance, held in April. The efforts of the adviser, Mrs. Agnes C. Swift; the officers, and the entire membership have made the program an outstanding one. Beverley Hershey is President; Pat Andrews, Vice-President; Janet Banks, Secretary; Berniece Micka, Treasurer.

BASKETBALL

Basketball was a new interest in the Hall sports program this year. Class teams were organized, and played a series of keenly contested games, the Seniors emerging as final winners.

The school team, chosen from all the class teams, with Sally Mount as captain, then entered the city basketball tournament, played splendid games all the way through, and placed third at the end—a notable record for our first year in basketball. The high point girls were: first, Sally Mount; second, Sally Stanley; third, Beverley Hershey.

ALL SET! Betty Charlton, Charnelle Boring, Barbara Beck, Peggy Kuhns, Lee Winterbotham, Rosemary Roth.

Opportunities for participating in swimming, riding, and skiing are always more than welcome. We have thrilled to the excitement of these sports and learned a great deal at the same time. Every Wednesday sees us going down Thirteenth Street to the pool of the Jewish Community Center, where Miss Hershberger guides us in learning strokes and diving. At the Highland Riding Academy the Hall girls on their mounts are a familiar sight; their club, the "Hall Spurs", has an interesting program for riders. Tennis, softball, badminton, also have their devotees among the girls.

HALLITES Row 1—Barbara Freeman, Janet Banks, Sally Stanley, Amaryllis Lilles.

At the top of the fine sports record of the Hall stands our achievement in volleyball. This season we continued the pace set last year by again winning the city championship.

The season opened with the organizing of class teams. Our Freshmen then battled to a victory in a series of games with the freshmen of Catlin School and brought home a beautiful silver loving cup. The Hallite team, captained by Pat Andrews, was meanwhile losing no time in the tournament sponsored by the City Park Bureau. In this contest our team played the girls of six other high schools, winning twelve games out of thirteen.

LITERARY

TO THE WINGÉD VICTORY

O, Wingéd Victory, once bright and clean,
What strange lands you must have seen!
I picture you, as I see you now,
The way you looked on the old ship's prow.
What mighty heroes long since dead,
Proud and victorious you have led!
Though broken in body, O spirit of Greece,
You'll remain through the ages, a great masterpiece.

MARTHA STEARNS—Eighth Grade.
Winner of the Delphic Cup.

A SPRING EVENING

Silver and soft is the starlight;
Green is the growing grass;
Deep is the lake as it shimmers
Like a fairy's looking-glass.

The fragrance of sweet flowers
Fills the fresh, spring air,
As a gentle breeze whispers,
"Ah! but the world is fair!"

JOAN GORDON—Eighth Grade.
Third Place in Delphic Contest.

A BELL SOUNDS

A bell sounds;
Blue-veiled girls appear;
Silence falls;
Heads are lowered,
Voices raised in praise.

Sunlight on the altar,
Linen gleaming,
Candles glowing,
Organ vibrating,
Chimes are tolling.

Peace reigns;
A serenity engulfs;
Cares disappear.
This brief reverie lingers
In our mem'ries of the Hall.

ROSEMARY ROTH—Junior.
Second Place in Delphic Contest.

DAPHNE

When winds toss cloud lambs
In a snowy ring,
The daphne—
What can it be,
Blooming there by the old pear tree?
A skirt for a fairy,
Corsage for a doll,
Or a hat for an elf to wear to a ball?
Delicate, dear as a poet's rhymes,
Perhaps for an elfin church it's the chimes.
Who knows what makes those pink heads nod?
Who knows—
I mean,
Who knows but God?

A WINTER PORTRAIT

The sky is soft as black velvet;
The smell of pine fills the air;
The wind in the graceful tree-tops
Is humming a lonely prayer.

The starlight makes silvery patterns,
Mingled with the moon's golden glow;
The snow beats down in a rhythm—
Soft and slow.

A SEQUENCE

I. Wind Through the Trees

Mysterious melody,
Haunting refrain,
A beating rhythm,
Wind through the trees.

A dim twilight,
Shadows like ghosts,
Limbs bending low,
Wind through the trees.

II. Stars

The twinkling stars
Reflect on the lake,
As glimmering jewels
Begin to shape.

The angels sing
From Heaven above,
For the whole earth
Is filled with love.

MARILYN BERNSTEIN—Eighth Grade.

THE BROOK

I walked in woods all garbed in spring
And heard the brook, a rippling thing;
It had a sweet, metallic ring
All its own.

I made my way through red-gold flowers,
And branches forming vivid bowers
To the brook, where I spent happy hours,
All alone.

The laughing, crystal, bubbling stream
Was singing a song, so it would seem.
I listened entranced, as if in a dream
All my own.

The time went swiftly; hours flew by,
And still the magic did not die
Until at last I turned with a sigh
Toward home.

ANN ELLSPERMAN—Freshman

My name is Mouse, Percival Q. Mouse, to be exact. And let those who read this little tale know that I am no ordinary rodent. My father was a Harvard man—or mouse, I should say, and my ancestors grew up on good Dutch cheese coming over on the Mayflower. Naturally, I have an aristocratic outlook.

My story begins in the freight-yards of Portland, Oregon. I had been traveling on a cross-country freight car for many weary days and was glad to leave it. Just as I stepped out I was attacked by a hungry cat of immense proportions whose sole desire, at the moment, was to have me for his supper. Not wishing to comply with such an unreasonable demand, I dashed down the station platform with puss at my heels. I was desperate. Obeying an impulse, I clambered up a nearby post, and had just begun to gather my scattered dignity together when a truck hit it with an awful thud and knocked me off onto a pile of baggage. Exhaustion and that fall left me unconscious for some time.

When I awoke, having no idea where I was, I seemed to be bumping along in a dark pocket. I heard a warm, cordial voice say, "Yes, this is St. Helen's Hall. Oh, you are Mrs. Winters, the new maid. Come right in." In a moment or two I realized that I had fallen into a shopping bag, and it dawned upon me that I was catching a glimpse of a well-known school for girls of which I had often heard.

Realizing that I was in a dangerous spot, I hopped to the floor and scampered off, thanking my lucky stars that the two women were too engrossed in conversation to notice my escape.

I had always had a natural curiosity concerning a girls' school and so seized upon the opportunity to look around a bit.

I whisked down some stairs, around some corners and found myself in a room empty of people but filled with all manner of queer objects. I was so awed by my surroundings that I did not notice the odd glass contraption on the table until . . . crash! Glass fragments scattered everywhere!

"Now is the time for all sane, sensible mice to keep calm," I thought, dashing for the nearest exit. Between glass tubes, over books, under tables I madly scrambled, splashing through a pan of some liquid before I reached the safety of the hall. Then I noticed my tail and my paws. There were practically white.

"Peroxide," thought I, remembering the pan of liquid. Thus, I can truthfully say that my adventure in the chemistry lab actually turned my hair white.

Next I entered a room filled with tall closets. The door of one was ajar and so I entered. The dust was so thick it tickled my nose and I sneezed and made a startled jump. Horrors of horrors! All sorts of objects came tumbling down. Books, tennis balls, papers and shoes would have done an excellent job of crushing me had I not ducked under a tennis racket. When the avalanche had subsided, I stole out. My suspicions were confirmed. This was the day students' locker room.

Classes for the day had begun when I again entered the upper hall, and I had to take care to keep out of sight. I squeezed under a door far enough to peek into one room, where someone was drawing a circle with queer lines in it on a blackboard. I heard someone say "geometry," which may be harmless, but the drawing looked too much like a mouse-trap for me, and so I scuttled off. I found another room with a door partly opened. The girls inside were talking in a funny fashion. I recognized the word "Señora," but since my ancestors were strictly English, I never bothered to learn Spanish, and so I stayed only a few moments.

For the better part of the day I wandered here and there and everywhere, visiting the library, parlor, round table room, and even Mrs. Macdonald's office, where I was almost locked in the small change drawer. I found it wasn't too hard to pick up a little lunch.

I had always been curious as to how the boarders live, so it was to the boarding department that I next propelled my slightly weary self. To say that the place was in a state of confusion would be a gross understatement. I heard girls' voices all around me.

"Elizabeth, hurry up!" "Gloria, may I borrow your pearls?" "What time does the dance start?" "If Jack can't come, I don't know what I'll do!" Evidently there was to be a dance. As for the lovely young lady so distressed over "Jack's" safe arrival, I thought to myself she needn't have worried. I would have been quite happy to escort her. But then I realized that the difference in our respective heights would render that impractical.

I was so busy meditating over this that I forgot to keep myself hidden, and presently there was a shrill screech, "Eek! A mouse!"

I hastily decided that the time had come to bid farewell to St. Helen's Hall, and so, dodging shrieking girls, I made a rapid exit via the back stairway.

Thus I spent my one and only day at the Hall. In my opinion it is a very fine school, but the next time I want to spend a relaxing day I shall choose a nice, quiet insane asylum instead. Not because I have any but fond memories of the Hall, but because I fear that daily life there is far too vigorous for a genteel and rather delicate mouse like myself.

SUZANNE POLSKY—Sophomore

HIGH SCHOOL HONORS OF 1946

Milestones of progress in our student life are marked by the presentation of awards on Class Day each year at the Hall.

The alumnae pin, given annually to the Senior of good scholarship who has contributed most to the life of the school, was awarded to Jean Edmonds. Carla Rebagliati received honorable mention.

Winner of the Bishop's award for outstanding work in Sacred Studies was Shirley Barton, whose name was engraved on the Holford cup in token of this.

In an essay contest sponsored by the Living Church on "Missions," Barbara Jean Freeman, Carmen Miesen, and Elaine Walker received awards. First prize in an essay contest on the subject, "What Can I Do for My Country?" was given to Rosemary Roth.

Two prizes awarded in the American Legion essay contest were received by Hall girls. Sally Stone ranked first and Harriet Bouvy second. In the contest conducted annually by the National Society of Colonial Daughters, Marilyn Bernstein of the seventh grade wrote the prize-winning essay, winning a medal, while certificates of merit were presented to Joanne Schantin, Eleanor Colwell, and Barbara Freeman.

St. Helen's Hall was again represented in the Annual Anthology of High School Poetry, this time by Suzanne Polsky. Suzanne's name was also engraved on the cup awarded each year by the Delphic staff for literary achievement.

Virginia Seale, Beverly Fanning, and Ann Adams received awards for their cooperation, tidiness, and cheerfulness, in the boarding department.

The Girls' Volleyball championship of Portland was won by the "Hall's" first volleyball team, and the trophy was presented to Captain Carla Rebagliati.

The students of the high school placing in the highest tenth in scholastic achievement were:

- | | |
|-------------------|--------------------|
| 1. Shirley Barton | 5. Florence Inglis |
| 2. Joanne Cohn | 6. Ardis Jones |
| 3. Jean Dalin | 7. Karla Van Loan |
| 4. Jean Edmonds | 8. Sally Stone |

Highest scholastic honors in the seventh and eighth grades went to Diann Swift and Sara Skinner, respectively.

ALUMNAE NEWS

Adeline Kendall, 1917, has opened her new craft shop (formerly Florence Knowlton's) across from the Public Library in Portland on S.W. Yamhill Street.

The Alumnae have been represented on the Board of Trustees of the Hall for the past three years by Francis Spaulding Charlton (Mrs. David B.), who graduated in 1922, and Margaret Morrison Sharp (Mrs. Thomas) of the class of 1905.

Nancy Ann Hilton, 1935, now Mrs. John H. Leary, has a second child, a son, born February 25.

Peggy Parker, 1938, was one of the first Wasps in service during the war. She is now Mrs. Max Samny of Portland.

Of the 1939'ers, Billie Wade is a Red Cross Worker, recently stationed in Oakland. Gloria Kibbee Cooke and her husband, Dr. D. O. Cooke, have returned to Portland from France, and are living at 5244 S.W. Humphrey Boulevard. Frances Miller (Mrs. James Miller) has two children and is now living in Seattle. Jean Barnes, who majored in languages at Stanford, is in Yokohama, where she teaches Japanese to American soldiers. Before returning to civilian clothes, Jean was a lieutenant in the Waves.

Maradick Word of 1940, has been graduated from the University of Oregon and is writing copy in the advertising department of Meier & Frank. Alice Moore (Mrs. Clarence Iltz) and her husband are operating Western Skyways at Troutdale. Ann Alton (Mrs. Al Kronenberg) has been graduated from Stanford and is living in Portland.

Jean Morrison, of 1941, is now living in Portland, and is employed at the Portland Clinic.

Charmian Kolar, class of 1942, having been graduated from Stanford last year, was married in September to Langdon Hilleary, also a graduate of Stanford University and, in addition, of the Stanford School of Business. Dorothy Manville, of the same class, is attending a school of design in New York.

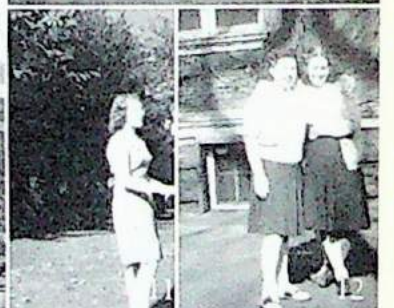

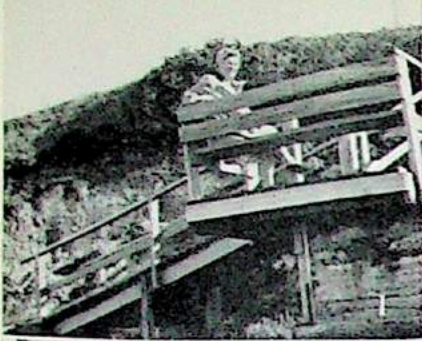

Nada Skidmore, 1943, is on the staff of the Stanford daily newspaper and also of the yearbook, The Quad.

Two members of the class of 1944 have announced plans to marry in June. They are Patty Jack, engaged to Alexander James Skene, and Patty Petheram, engaged to Alexander H. Hargis of Yakima, Washington. Nadine Honeyman has been graduated from Spence, and is working for radio station KEX. Patricia Bendshadler, who is attending the University of Washington, was a counselor at Camp Tamarack last summer.

Sally Meyers, 1945, was married to William Carsgadden on December 22, in Trinity Chapel. Molly Clair of 1945 attended her. Frances Hibbard is Mrs. George Hubbard, living near Seattle.

Other news of the same class: At the University of Washington are Dorothy Mount (Alpha Chi Omega), Patricia Walker (Delta Delta Delta), Susan Garrigus (Alpha Omicron Pi), Patricia Pearson (Delta Gamma), and Yolanda Schultz (Alpha Delta Pi). Malvena Evenson is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta at Oregon State College. Attending the University of Oregon are Phyllis Holdman (Gamma Phi Beta), Donna Rankin (Gamma Phi Beta), and Patricia Stone (Kappa Kappa Gamma). June Anderson is at Reed College; Susan Teague is a Delta Gamma at Whitman.

Of the 1946 graduates, Ardis Jones is attending Reed College; Carol Mays, Elaine Walker, and Lillian Butler are at St. Helen's Hall Junior College; and Jean Edmonds is at Pomona College. At the University of Oregon are Barbara Christopherson (Delta Zeta), Barbara Henton (Delta Delta Delta), Elizabeth Sholdebrand (Delta Delta Delta), and Florene Inglis (Kappa Alpha Theta). Carla Rebagliati is a Delta Gamma at Oregon State, and Ellen Meyers is there also, a member of Kappa Alpha Theta.

The progress of Man can be measured only by the bounty of Nature.

Everything Man has, originates in Nature. Nature provides our heritage. May we ever guard against wasting this Heritage.

Pests are ever present, waiting for a chance to destroy—these are both human and animal.

God created the trees. We are privileged to make lumber from the trees. In order to stop waste of the lumber from these trees, we specialize in wolmanizing lumber against termites and rot. Remember, every piece of lumber that decays took Nature one hundred years or more to produce.
