To Mrs. Gibbons
From The Yearbook Staff

As St. Helen's Hall and Bishop Dagwell Hall grow closer together the practice of having separate yearbooks is being abandoned. The transition from the two existing yearbooks, the Bishop Dagwell Hall Legend and the St. Helen's Hall Delphic, has led us to adopt the name Legend – Delphic. In this manner the two schools retain their identity, while showing how closely related the schools have become.

“Not one, but two, inseparably. . . .”

Mr. David Leech Headmaster

Life is exciting in a school. Everybody except the completely unimaginative knows this to be true. No two days are ever alike, unless there are two that are equally frantic or equally discouraging. Seen on a larger scale it is equally true that no two school years are ever alike. All of us at the Oregon Episcopal Schools know this to be very very true because the schools are in years of growth, of continuing adjustment to the new campus, of realization of all that it means to St. Helen's Hall to have Bishop Dagwell Hall on the same campus.

It means a great deal to all of us to be here in this one spot. As someone said in a recent educational convention, "Girls' schools are discovering the other half of humanity." Our discovery has brought a potentially great boys' school to the side of an ancient girls school and both are better because of the association. Were this not true for us and potentially true for many other schools, we would not see so many schools for "just boys" and "just girls" preparing to enter into coordinate school relationships such as we already enjoy – and appreciate. Apparently this movement is no fad. With major male universities accepting women undergraduates we realize we are witnessing the death of medieval educational concepts as they give way to something more in tune with the times.

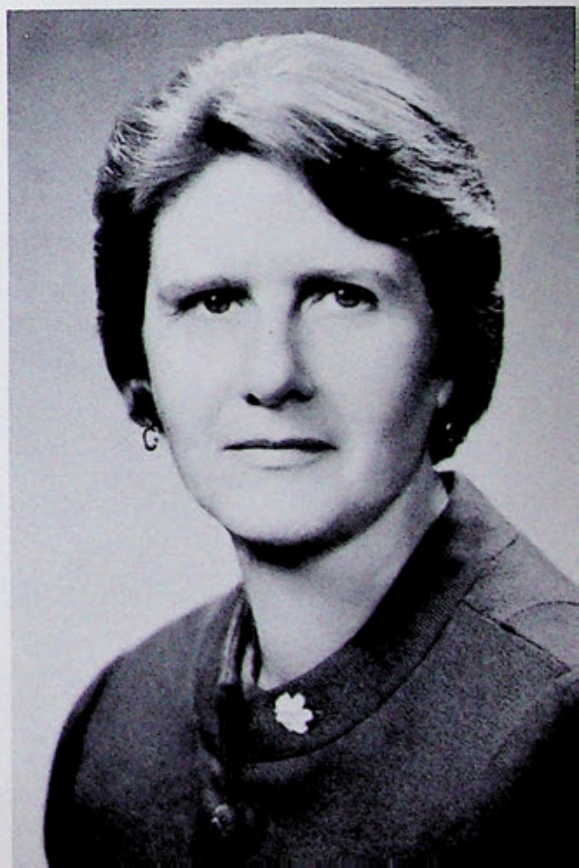

This yearbook is one more step in that direction: toward the better solution. Any kind of yearbook is a treasure! It is great to have a record of classmates and the multitude of activities which make the full years before college. Ever since 1966 any yearbook published on our campus told just half of our fast-paced story because there were two books. Now, with this one yearbook both schools have their record of THE WHOLE STORY. I am one of the many who are sincerely happy about this.

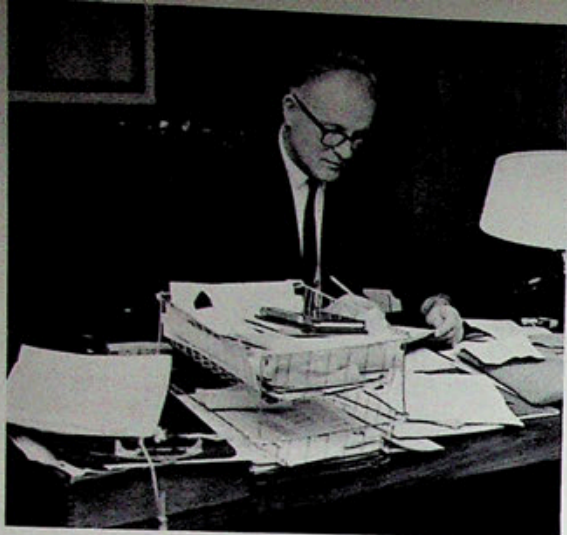

Congratulations to the two graduating classes of 1969. All will cherish their unique memories and the different traditions of their schools. May all of these prosper as we wish and know they shall. And may they always enjoy this beautifully complete record of some of the very happiest days in their lives.

BISHOP

The times are hard and to a new principal the road is long. As we, the third senior class of Bishop Dagwell Hall, go in our different directions we will always think back and remember Mr. Wood. This man, who came to us three years ago from Lenox School in Massachusetts, has established himself as a strong leader and friend in our community. Whether on the field as coach of the lacrosse team, in his office giving guidance or in the dormitory just discussing subjects of the day, Mr. Wood is always ready to help.

It is with great honor and pride therefore, that we, the Senior Class of Bishop Dagwell Hall, dedicate the 1969 Legend to a man who has added so immeasurably to our lives, Fredrick D. Wood.

I Richard Westlund being of feeble mind and food poisoned body, hereby and henceforth will the following to the following: to Craig Rosenlund, a V.W. full of snow; to Norman Frink, a more dashing political career than he's had in the past; to Greg Tenney, a life-size picture of Mrs. Griswold; to Liz Dorosh, a receipt for an 11c item; to Bill Courter, a cure for hummers, math tricks and seniorites; to Walter Daggett, my coloring book and paint set (without the brush); to Tom Boon, a book of quotes from Mr. Mathews; to North Cheatam, another chance at Nadine; to John Bernau, a ray of Hope; to Lenora Bruce, my scrupulous work habits; to Chuck Reynolds, a 2 by 2 collage of all the H.D.L. problems he's done this year (size inversely proportional to material available); to Marybeth Merwin, a piece of gum after every lunch; to Ken Sakai, a more sociably acceptable style of saying "Hey there"; to Eliot Cobb, my track shoes for his future career in cross country; to Bob Catlin, a future up in lights for his Embrionic Kiddies group; to Mark Workamn, the 8 dollars I owe him for our pool games; to Paul Proudfoot, my herd of 100,000 sheep (which must immediately be moved to his cattle ranch for grazing), and a B+ in applied physics so he'll know exactly what to do with them; to Libby Bishop, my Jean Claude skiing style, take it or leave it; to Bob Marcy, a more enthusiastic attitude toward track practice; to Jim O'Donnell, my most valuable assistance as staff writer in the future, if he really wants it; to Ann Helverson, free water skiing lessons for a nominal fee; to Jody Daniels, my corvette (painted red); to Sarah Stevenson, a lifetime contract as usher at all showings of Romeo and Juliet; to Shari Little, my vast mathematical background; to Randy Bruss, a nickle plated shotput with the first 3 verses of "I once had a girl" engraved on it; to Bob Love, as many vice-presidencys as he can win from me; to Ed Haessler, a cigar for use during water skiing; to Paige Plummer, a taped collection of our extremely coherent conversations on world affairs and whatever; and to Mak Palmer, another year of summer school, water skiing, and mud in the eye.
