

Legend Delphic

OREGON EPISCOPAL SCHOOL
PORTLAND, OREGON
LEGEND-DELPHIC
1980-81

We, the Senior Class, found ourselves in a quandary when it came to dedicating this yearbook. The people of O.E.S. have done much to help us grow and they are special to us, but when we thought of who had done the most for our class we thought of these two women. There was no way to choose between them. They have both given of their time, their energy, their concern and their caring.

To say that Lynne Sadler has been our English teacher for three years can in no way express the way she has enriched our minds. To have a class with Mrs. Sadler is to be challenged, to think about the way an author presents life, how he creates his impressions, and the validity of the view. It is to see the characters as ideas about people, to love and hate them. Rabbit, John Savage, Edna Pontellier, Gatsby, Finny, Hester, Brett. It is to have an opinion and the courage to argue it. It is to develop the ability to express beliefs and feelings about literature and life. Besides our classes, she has taken us into her life. We have watched her with her daughter, even in class sometimes, mother and teacher the same woman. We have enjoyed her farm, sheep, good food and good conversation. We have been able to see our teacher as a whole, caring person. She has taught us ways to think and shown us a way to live.

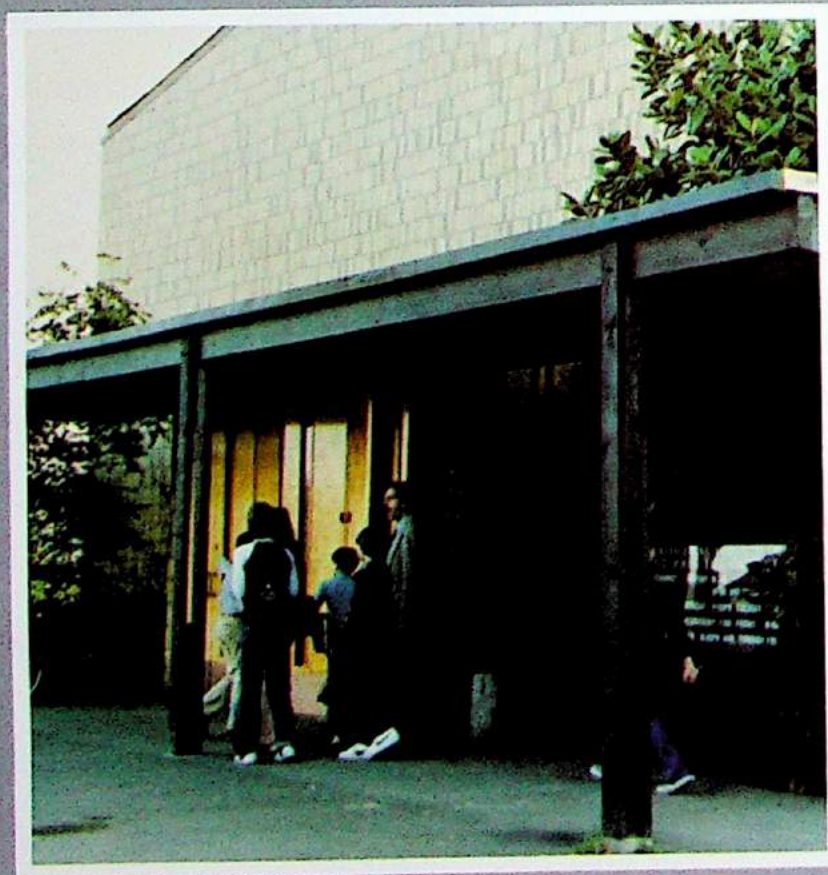

For all they have taught and all they have been to us, the Senior Class dedicates this yearbook to Kate Loggan and Lynne Sadler.

Kate Loggan has been our class advisor for four years. She ran many sleepy class meetings, helped us organize Bake Sales, Canned Food Drives, elections, and activities. She has opened her home to us on many occasions giving us a chance to be together outside of school, eat each other's cooking, and play wild games of Telephone. She has come on all of our Basecamp trips, giving encouragement to make it up Mt. Hood, and treating blisters or singing by the camp fire calmly knitting on the Junior Trip.

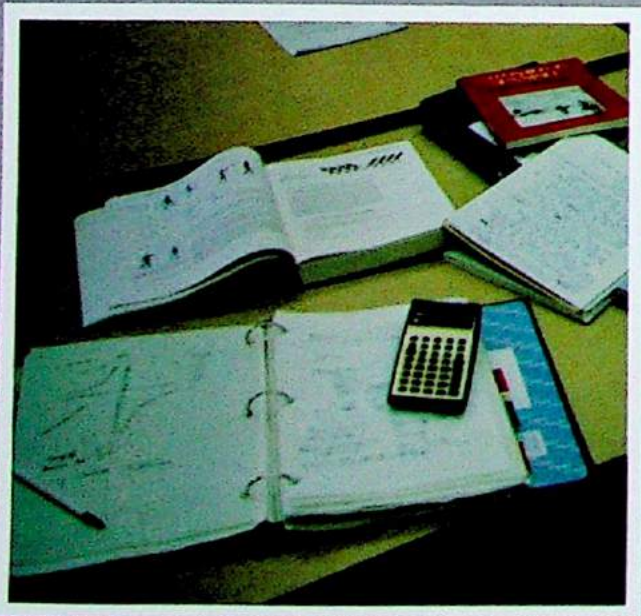

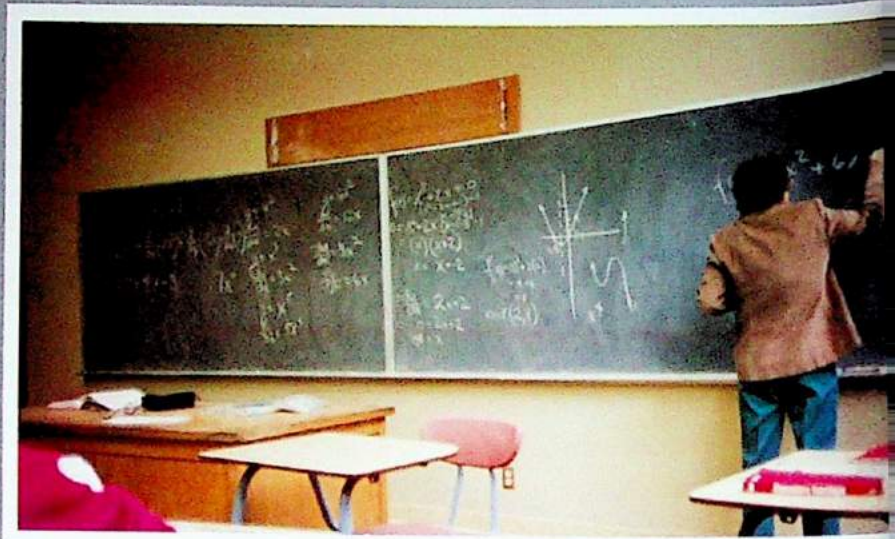

As a librarian she's always willing to share her knowledge and her love of books, to find just the thing for the research paper that's due tomorrow or just a good novel to while the hours away.

LET me wake up in the morning to find
I have someplace exciting to go.

GIVE me something to believe in,

GIVE me
somebody to be,

GIVE me
somebody
to dance with,

Give me a place to fit in.

HELP me return to the world of the living by showing me how to begin.

PLAY me the music,
Give me a chance to come through.
All I ever needed was the music
And the chance to dance for you.

FALL

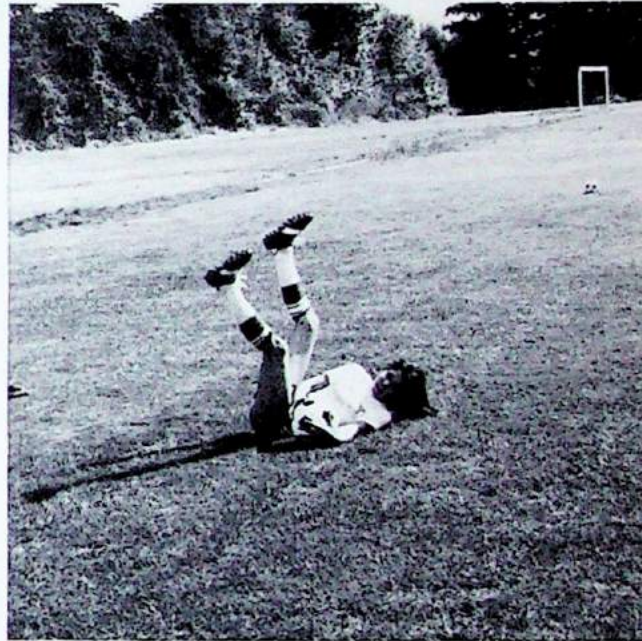

IF THEIR actions on the first day of school are any indication of the year to come, the senior class at Oregon Episcopal School should be known as the Senior Class, with a capital C.

The 29 seniors paid $16 apiece last week to be chauffeured to school in four Lincoln Continental limousines rented from Classic Chauffeur.

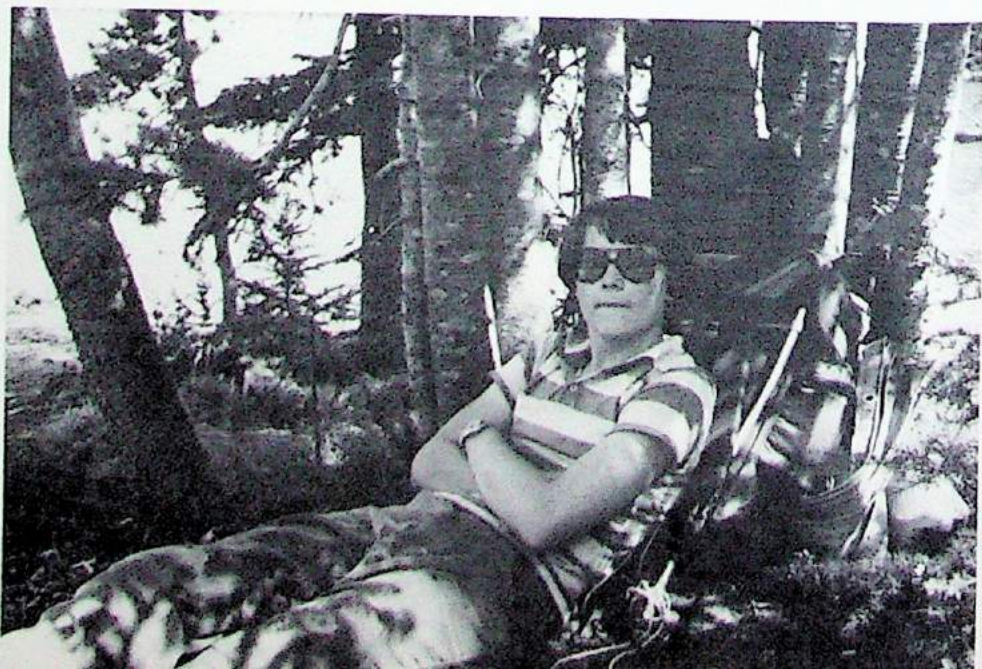

The students met early at the school and were driven to the Portland Center

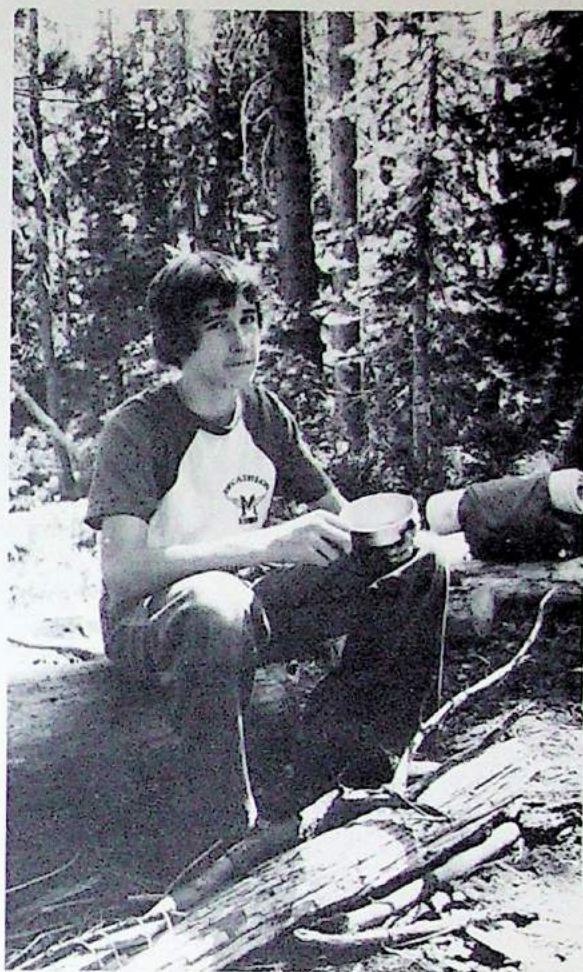

Red Lion Motor Inn for breakfast. They arrived back at school in luxurious splendor "only slightly late" for class.

At the beginning of the year we found that O.E.S. had changed during the summer. Senior Park had been paved to become a Middle School playground, and an addition to the Lower School classrooms was being built. Fr. Bob Greenfield, Dean of the Cathedral and former O.E.S. chaplain, was leaving after twenty years; John Kerlake returned to the Science Department after a year's sabbatical. Large portable blocks provided new seating in the Great Hall. A Beach Day replaced traditional Orientation activities. But the community spirit and academic excellence that are the heart of O.E.S. were still to be seen.

The bionic leaf, Lochsaw, eating peanuts, magic spots, "Oh! That Coyote", hoe down . . . Ask any sixth grader about these and you will open a whole world of happy events. Most of all ask them about E-C-D-C-I-C-A, that special code that holds all of the secrets to life on earth.

Blind Poem

Fresh
Cold
Adventuresome
Near my magic spot,
I would like to have a hawk
Nest in a tree
I wish that I would
Be an eagle, for a day
I wished that I owned
A very very wild horse.
Adventuresome, adventuresome.
I would wish to have a herd of tamed horses
On my twenty acres,
By the ocean
Fuzzy, Loving, soft and ugly.
To live with a deer
And her friends in my magic spot
Magic and special spot
I wish that I could camp outside,
And look up at the stars all night.
Magic, magic and special spot
I want my magic spot never to be

International Day Most Festive Ever

Thursday, October 16th, marked the fourth annual O.E.S. International Day. Headed by Kate Loggan, once again it was an enjoyable success. Over 150 people came to the dinner - many students and friends of the school. The evening's agenda included Japanese Koto music, folk dancing performed and taught by a group from the Mittleman Jewish Community Center, and, of course, the delicious potluck dinner. Some of the dorm students prepared dishes from their countries, and there are plans to make a cookbook from the recipes of the dishes served.

Students Aid Community

Through Work Service

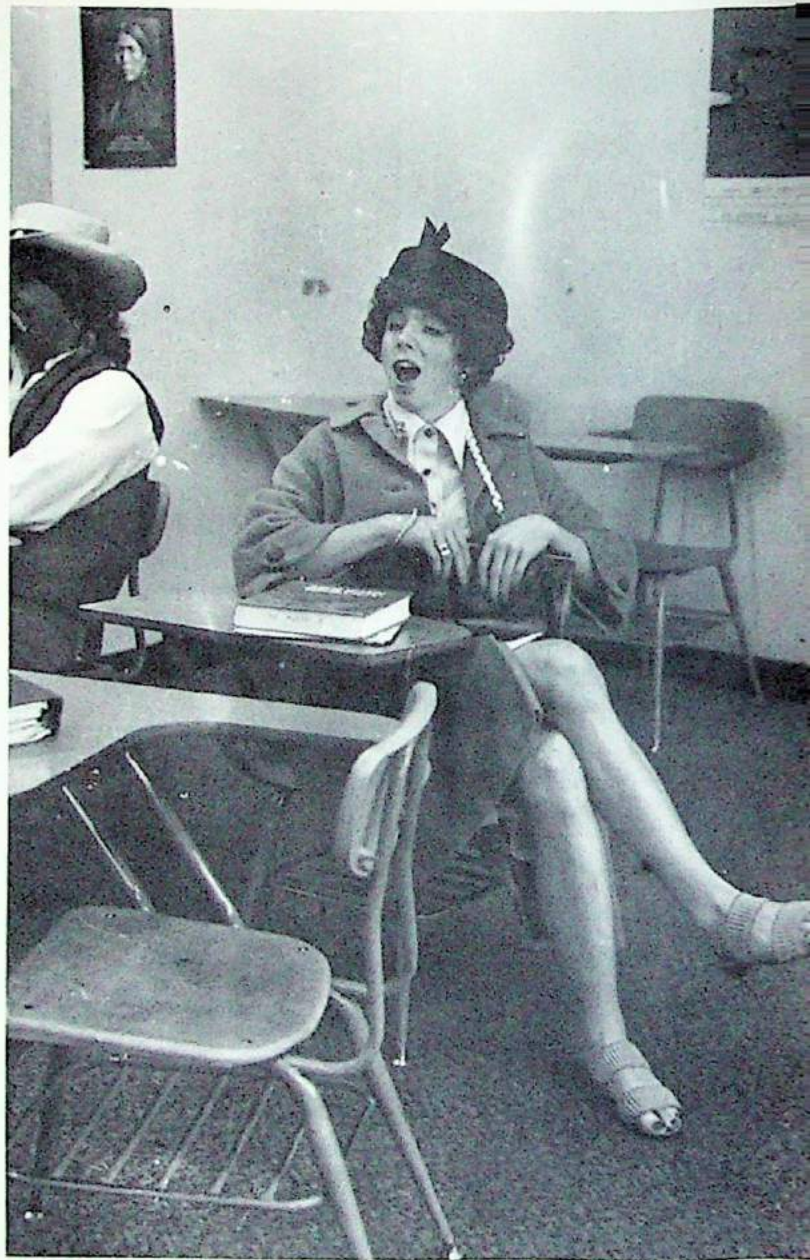

Work Service has been a part of O.E.S. for five years. It provides a chance for students to give part of their time and themselves to helping others. Many students choose to do their work service during one of their free periods. Such services include teacher's aids, grounds work, and kitchen. A few students seek volunteer jobs outside of O.E.S. such as candy striping or Outdoor School counseling. Fr. David Pace coordinates the work service program; Sean Kuni and Benji Sawyer manage the student store and Eric Hart coordinated the Outdoor School counselors.

Highest Turnout Ever For Halloween

The Student Council added a pumpkin-carving contest to the traditional Costume Day on Friday, October 31st. Almost all the Middle and Upper School students came in costume. Most noted were transvestites Sean Kuni and Mel Murphy, voted "funniest"; an entire package of M-and-M's; Marleine Hofmann's Miss Piggy; and numerous ghosts, babies, and punk rockers. The festivities culminated in the "Celebrate-SAT'S-Are-Over-And-Halloween Dance" Saturday night, attended by many in costume.

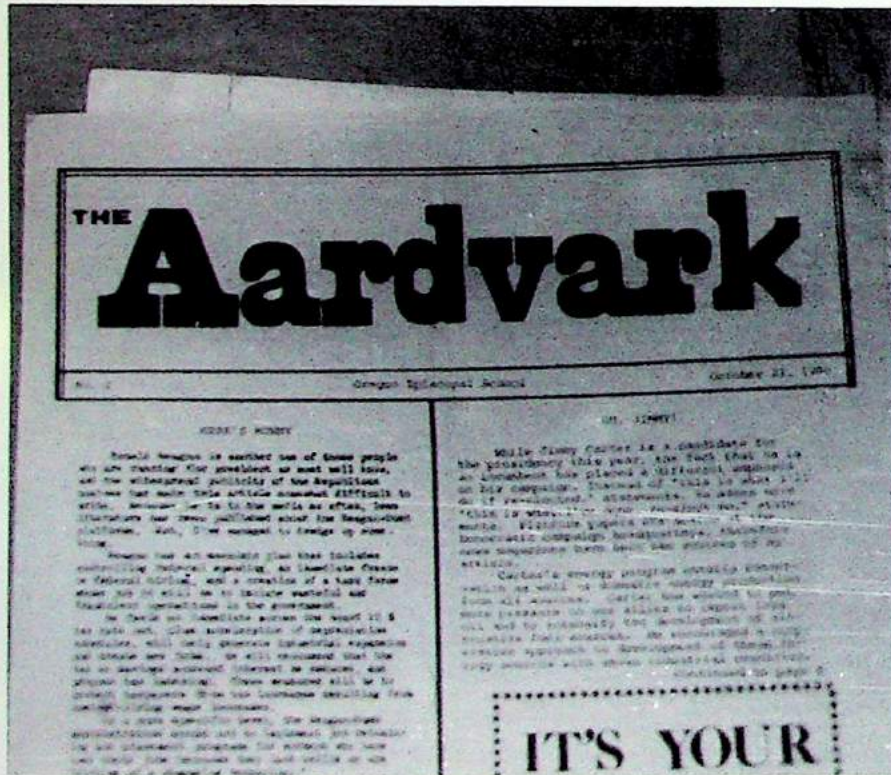

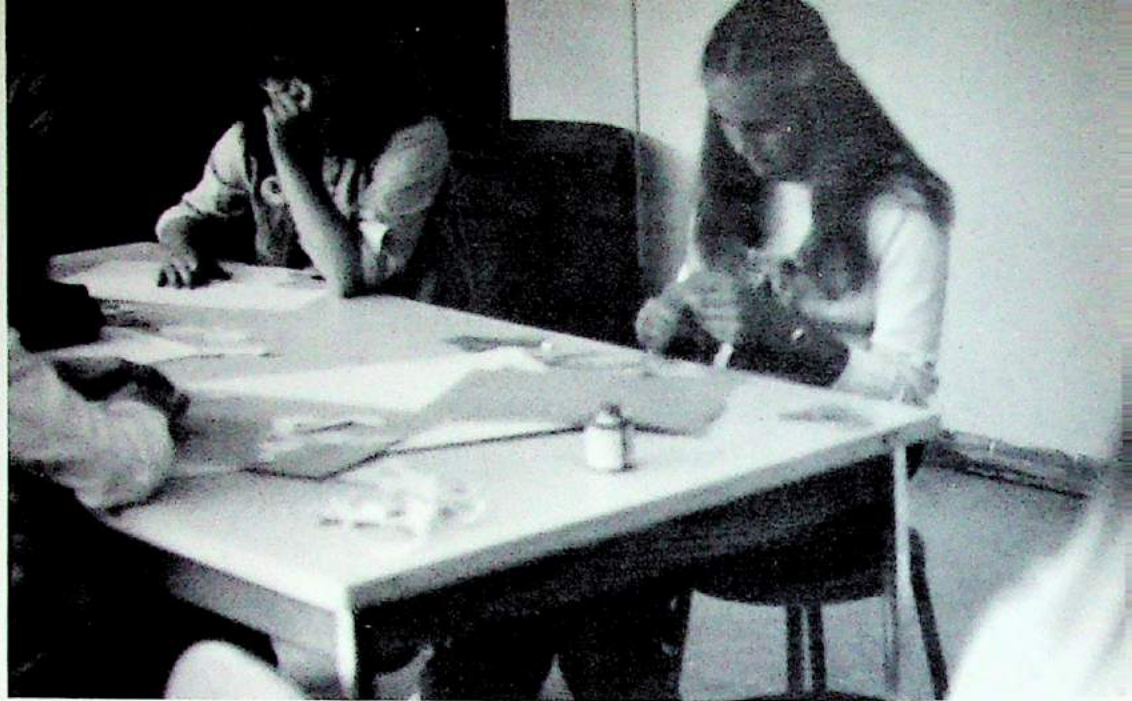

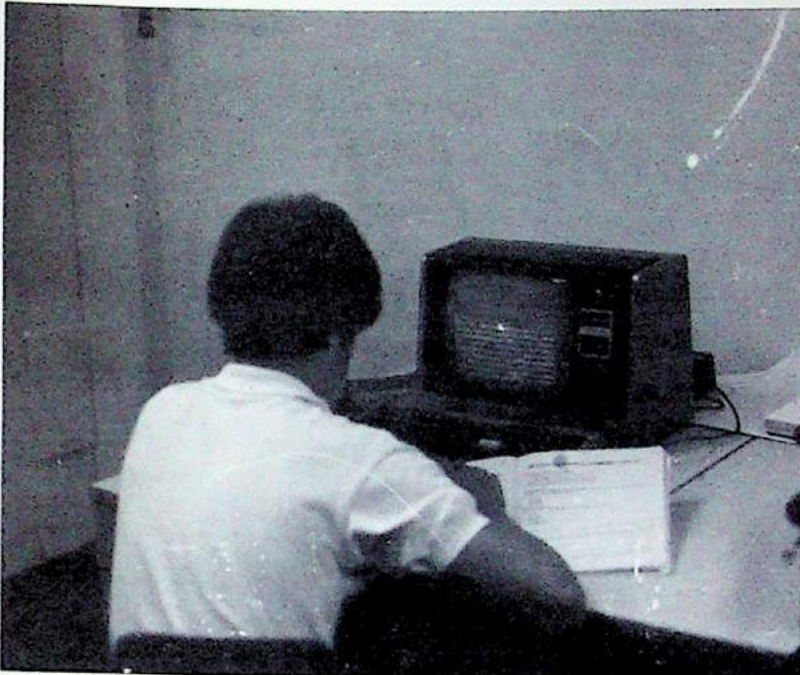

*Beach Day -
The Big Splash!*

In 1975 PANYC was originated as a program to include the O.E.S. Upper Schoolers in non-academic programs. It was thought that the arts as well as the academics were important to a well-rounded person. One period each day was set aside for elective classes.

This year, with the change from trimester to semester grading periods, PANYC was also altered. Students take two PANYCs each semester, cycle 1 and cycle 2 meeting on alternate days.

New PANYC Schedule Allows Greater Diversity

Besides the traditional P.E., Art, Newspaper, Yearbook, and Chorus, fall semester offerings included Chess, Physical Conditioning and Nutrition, Economics, Typing, Preparation for the S.A.T., Speech and Debate. There were independent studies in Vertebrate Anatomy and Dissection, P.E., and Biological Research. A computer science PANYC was begun on the new computer terminals.

Aardvark Staff Gives Paper New Look

The 1980 newspaper staff is dedicated to producing the Aardvark. Our continuing goal is to make each issue appealing to the students and faculty. Our final goal is to establish a newspaper that the students will be proud to say is theirs. A school newspaper should have a variety of well-written, interesting articles and a look pleasing to the eye. We believe the Aardvark does. It is a hurried and complicated process to produce such a newspaper; most of the work required time outside to produce such a newspaper; most of the work requires time outside of school. The quality of the Aardvark's dedicated staff shows in our paper.

Art-Lit Magazine Made Free To All

Led by advisor Terry Hansen, the 1981 Art and Literary Magazine contained artwork, prose, and poetry from the entire O.E.S. community. The name "Souled Out" was suggested by a student, and the cover design of a pair of feet bore out the theme. Especially noteworthy were creative writing by Tammy Wang and artwork by Michael Wienecke. Funds from the Coordinating Council made it possible this year to distribute the magazine to all students without the charge that had been necessary in the past.

Boys' Varsity

Soccer Makes Districts

The O.E.S. Boys' Varsity Soccer team this year was, as coach Sam Dibbins put it, "really aggressive. They did a lot of work themselves and their individual support of each other was fantastic. It made the team what it was.

If they lost a game, it was because the other team had more skills, not because they were sitting back and watching the ball go by." Dibbins also said he really enjoyed coaching them. Overall, it was a good, and winning season. Seniors Benji Sawyer and Brad Whitcomb and junior Steve Eckhardt were named to the league first team All-Stars.

1. Rich Gessford. 2. Scott Nacke. 3. The team: Brad Whitcomb, Benji Sawyer, Sam Dibbins, Glen Potrizio, Amir Najafi, Steve Eckhardt. Scott Doenecke, Joe Byrd, Terry Grover, Brent Husband, Peter Janny, Mike Diment, Payman Menrassa, Nader Rassouli, Joseph Ng, Rich Gessford.

Varsity Girls' Soccer Plays Seattle, Faculty

The 1980 Varsity Girls' Soccer Team was the strongest in several years. Their best scores were a 7-0 defeat of Forest Grove and 1-1 ties with Grant and archrival Catlin, the first game in five years not lost to Catlin. The Catlin and O.E.S. teams spent a night in Seattle, playing Liberty High School and the Overlake School. Each O.E.S. player stayed with a Liberty or Overlake student. O.E.S. also played its own faculty, narrowly losing by a 3-2 score. Senior Sarah Stephenson and junior Ellen Bronson were named to the All-Star League First team. With only three departing seniors, the 1981 team should be stronger yet.

What Makes Up An O.E.S. Volleyball Team?

- Two sets of sisters . . .
by one-half of a set of sisters
- Three dedicated seniors
- Best looks in the league
(Anonymous opinion!)
- Four boarders
- Three almost as "far away" day students
- Twelve persevering, supportive young women
mix with one "new" coach, Carla Heckrodt.

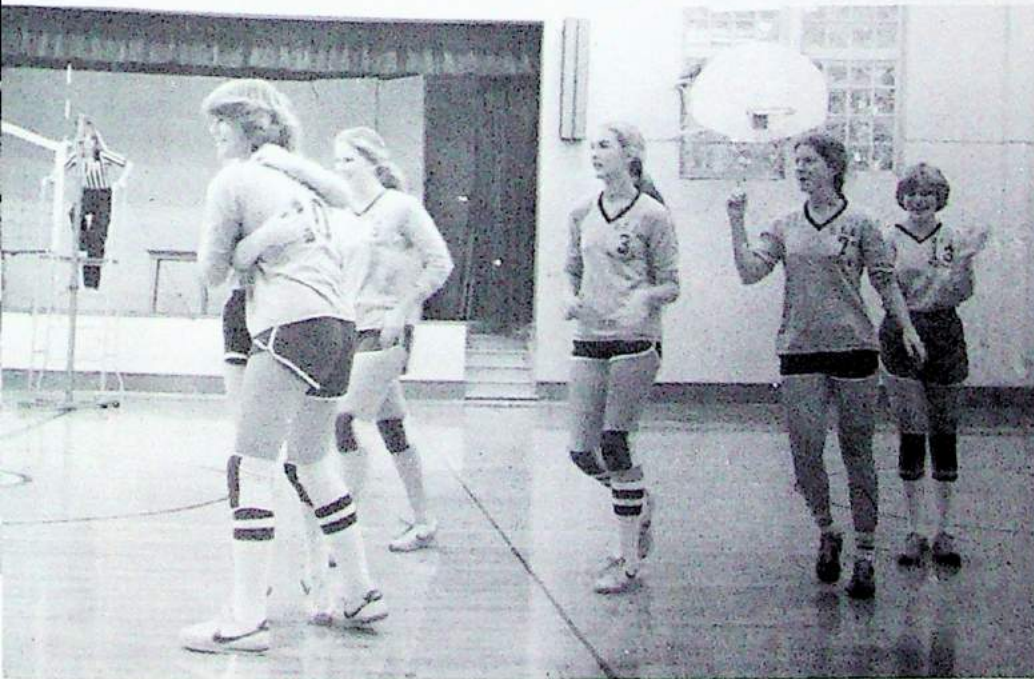

Yield: A season beneficial to all.

1. Kim West. 2. The team: Jenni Cornell, Jenny Kirkman, Kim Nacke, Dawn Drew, Janice Smith, Marciale Lambiel, Coach Carla Heckrodt, Pam Cornell, Marleine Hoffman, Jenny Horniman, Kim West, Betsy Bosen, Sue Horniman. 3. Marleine Hoffman. 4. Carla Heckrodt. 5. OES makes a point.

The first OES J.V. Volleyball team members rotated from the Varsity team and played a full season. Participation in girls' athletics this fall neared 50%, making possible J.V. teams in soccer and volleyball.

Cross Country Team Small But Powerful

The team: Chris Cutler, Babok Abbas-Zadeh, Jack McConn, Drew Bates, Carlos Graham.

The 1980 cross-country runners by running four to eight miles a day. Their diligence showed in the meets they ran in, with senior Chris Cutler winning six firsts. The team won the O.E.S. Invitational by forfeit, a mark of the respect afforded it by other teams.

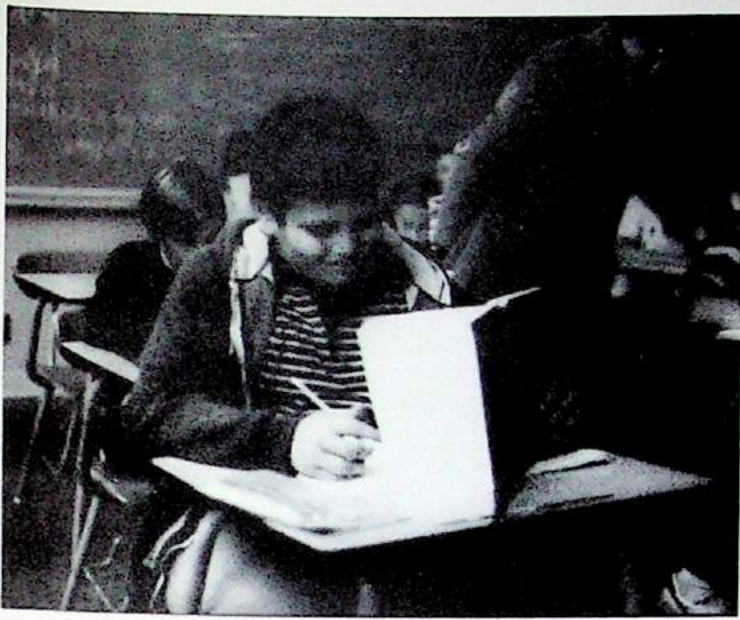

They cheered on the Varsity Girls' Soccer at Catlin after running a hard course. Their coach was Mike Houck.

SONG OF THE SKY LOOM

Our Mother the Earth, Our Father the Sky,
Your children are we, and with tired backs
We bring you the gifts that you love.
Then weave for us a garment of brightness;
May the warp be the white light of morning,
May the weft be the red light of evening,
May the fringes be the falling rain,
May the border be the standing rainbow.
Thus weave for us a garment of brightness
That we may walk fittingly where birds sing
That we may walk fittingly where grass is green,
Our Mother the Earth, Our Father the Sky!

On the road of experience
I'm trying to find my own way
Sometimes I wish that I could fly away
When I think that I'm moving
Suddenly things stand still I'm afraid 'cause I think they always will

And I'm looking for space
And to find out who I am
And I'm looking to know and understand
Sometimes I'm almost there
Sometimes I fly like an eagle and Sometimes I'm deep in despair

All alone in the universe
Sometimes that's how it all seems
I get lost in the sadness and the screams
Then I look in the center
Suddenly every thing's clear
I find myself in the sunshine and my dreams.

Two roads diverged in a yellow wood,
And sorry I could not travel both
And be one traveler, long I stood
And looked down one as far as I could
To where it bent in the undergrowth;

Then took the other, as just as fair,
And having perhaps the better claim,
Because it was grassy and wanted wear;
Though as for that the passing there
Had worn them really about the same,

And both that morning equally lay
In leaves no step had trodden black.
Oh, I kept the first for another day!
Yet knowing how way leads on to way,
I doubted if I should ever come back.

I shall be telling this with a sigh
Somewhere ages and ages hence:
Two roads diverged in a wood, and I-
I took the one less traveled by,
And that has made all the difference.

There was a man . . . who had just died, and he was reviewing the footsteps that he had taken in his life. He looked down and noticed that all over the mountains and difficult places he had traveled there was one set of footprints, but over the plains and down the hills there were two sets of footprints, as if someone had walked by his side. He turned to Jesus and said, "there is some thing I don't understand. Why is it that down the hills and over the smooth and easy places you have walked by my side, but over the rough and difficult places I have walked alone, for I see in these areas there is just one set of footprints?" Jesus turned to the man and said, "It is true that while your life was easy I walked alone at your side, but here when the walking was hard and the paths were difficult, I realized that that was the time you needed me most, and that is why I carried you."

Aftertones
Sometimes it's all too much to say aloud
The sound's a shroud
The meaning's crowd
Sometimes the words are painful to the ear
They disappear
When nothing's clear
'Till all that's left
to see are aftertones
I take them home
We live alone
But I remember
Chains of melody
It pleases me
This song's for free
Within the memories of our life gone by afraid to die
We learn to lie
and measure out the time in coffee spoons
in fading suns
and dying moons
'Till all that's left
to see are aftertones
and no one knows
Where meaning goes.
But I remember
Chains of melody
It pleases me.
This song's for free.

And 000, I like the sound of harmony from time to time
I really do believe in some kind of tomorrow when it speaks to me.

"Suddenly she came upon a little three-legged table, all made of solid glass: there was nothing on it but a tiny golden key, and Alice's first idea was that this might belong to one of the doors of the hall; but, alas! either the locks were too large or the key was too small, but at any rate it would not open any of them. However on the second time round, she came upon a low curtain she had not noticed before, and behind it was a little door about fifteen inches high: she tried the little golden key in the lock, and to her great delight it fitted!

Alice opened the door and found that it led into a small passage, not much larger than a rat-hole: she knelt down and looked along the passage into the loveliest garden you ever saw. How she longed to get out of that dark hall, and wander about among those beds of bright flowers and those cool fountains,"

Class Prophecy

The OES Class of 1981 ten-year reunion was held June 12, 1991, at Oswald West State Park. Student Body President Sarah Stephenson, now a Tupperware lady in Akron, Ohio, organized the festivities. Marleine Hofmann tried to collect a sixteen-dollar refreshments fee from each person, but several deadbeats still have not paid her. First to arrive were Payman Mehrassa, Drue Ferguson, and a class member who was so changed as to be unrecognizable, who flew in from Iran on Payman's private Concorde. Drue, now an ethn musicologist studying in the Mideast and speaking several languages fluently, wore a tweed jacket and cotton turtleneck of casual elegance. Payman wore a disco shirt, red pants, and silver shoes. Air Force One pulled up next on the airstrip, and White House Aide Helen Achilles stepped out, having taken time out from raising kids, animals, and hell in the White House for the reunion. A true femme d'affaires, she was conservatively well-dressed, unlike Amir Najafi, who rode his camel in from the nearby nude beach. He had been living with his stereo and basketball, "certainly better than living in the dorm." By far the most distinguished guest present was the Pope, husband of Jenny Horniman. Dressed in a charming white virginal gown, Jenny explained that their thirty-three "papal popelets" were at home in the Vatican with a nanny. The Midwestern delegation, comprised of Sarah, her husband Bob (an ex-wrestler turned Avon man), and Ruthanne Williams, drove up in Ruthanne's VW Rabbit. They had left Sarah's avocado-green Pinto in Logan, Utah, where Ruthanne was camping out in the Herff-Jones Yearbooks plant trying to convince them to finally publish the 1981 OES yearbook. Sarah wore "an outfit that won't let the air in or freshness out," Ruthanne wore jeans and her purple shoes. Ruthanne is now a Blue Bird leader and a revolutionary working to liberate women and children. Also working with children were Eric Hart and Bonnie Potts, now married, exhausted, and using the names Rose Prince and Princess. For a living they own and operate Outdoor School at Camp Rosearia, as well as populating. Their three children, E-C, D-C, and I-C, were to be joined by little A in two months. While they teach the seven key concepts of life to a new group of sixth-grade plebes each week, their dream is to overthrow the Queen of England and act royally in her place. Wearing rain gear, nametags, passports, and log books, they felt right at home with Toby Sawyer, in her t-shirt, Levi's, and Dr. Scholls. A dancer, she arrived in her underwater solar-powered plane/car which she had invented from her home in an underwater metropolis. In her extensive travels, she had visited Payman and Khomeini, who were roommates, as well as Konstantin Petropoulos, living at Versailles. Konstantin was borne into the park on a litter by Amir, Joseph Ng, and Pat McCally. Married to the King of Arabia's daughter, he is trying to produce as many children as possible. He autographed a copy of his best-seller, HOW TO SURVIVE THE OES DORMITORY, for Nader Rassouli, who after ten years still lives on campus. Nader, who is working in a hospital as a heart specialist, wore a scrub outfit to the reunion and rode up on a bicycle. On the other hand, Sean Kuni and his beautiful, kind, and intelligent wife drove up in a BMW M-1. Payman offered to pump gas for Sean any time he happened to be in Iran. Because people were still covering their bodies after ten years, Sean was clothed. He is a businessman living in the Pittock Mansion. Another pregnant classmate was Anna Lisa Fear, driving an old Jag inherited from her husband's father. Now a professor at Oxford researching the genetic biochemistry of cancer cells, she also dances and takes care of her "dinky apartment in Oxford." When Michelle Fromm, who had finally quit biting her nails and learned to spel, told Anna of her plan to live "someplace where time doesn't exist, where everybody wants nothing, and as far away from all physics and history books as possible." Anna immediately invited her to the castle her husband had inherited with the car. Michelle had also married, having found someone who was not ticklish. Her usual mode of transport is by electrical waves. The last two arrivals were Jenni Cornell and Kathleen Douglas, who bicycled in. Although Jenni is an elementary school teacher and Kathleen a journalist, they found that they have much in common. Both have husbands who love children and the outdoors, and both have one girl and one boy. Both like to dress comfortably and casually. Kathleen was later seen discussing ways to end the nuclear cold war with our unrecognizable classmate, who had once shaken hands with Nixon and gone to the moon, and Helen, who has connections in the State Department. Notes of regret were received from Tammy Wang, staying with her family in Taiwan; Chris Cutler and Brad Whitcomb, sailing on the East Coast; Karin Tinning, buying her fifth Saab; Lynn Willis, Ann Marcher, and Michael Wienecke, touring France; Benji Sawyer, out gallivanting; and Nicole Delman, staying in Israel. At midnight, a bonfire was held on the beach and a time capsule was sealed to be opened at the twenty-year reunion in 2001.

Student Council Involves

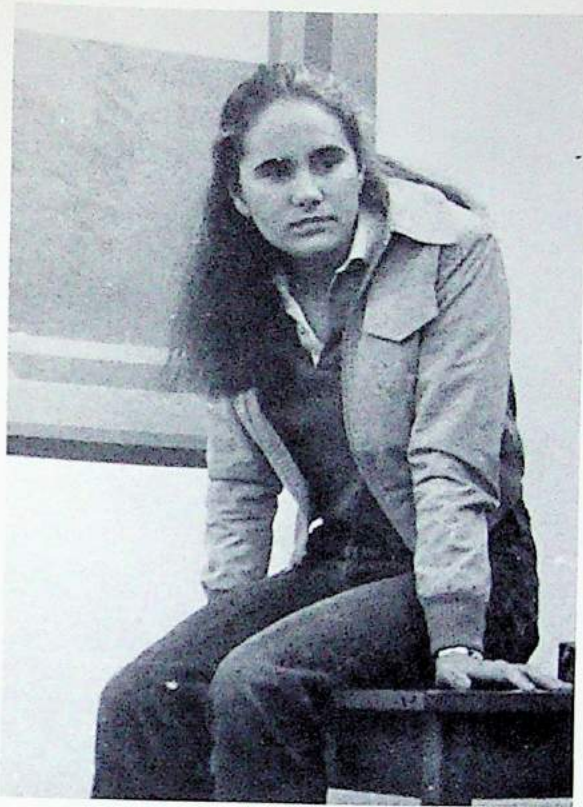

All Students

This year one of the goals of the Student Council was to encourage Upper School students to be active in the council. By encouraging students to come to meetings we got a much better idea of what activities and projects the students wanted. The council planned two dances, cut down a Christmas Tree for the cafeteria at the Furber's tree farm, helped with the canned food drive, and sold concessions at the girls' and boys' basketball games. The council also planned the prom and a mystery spy game in which the entire Upper School participated. We met at 7:30 a.m. on Wednesdays.

Shannon Pettit:

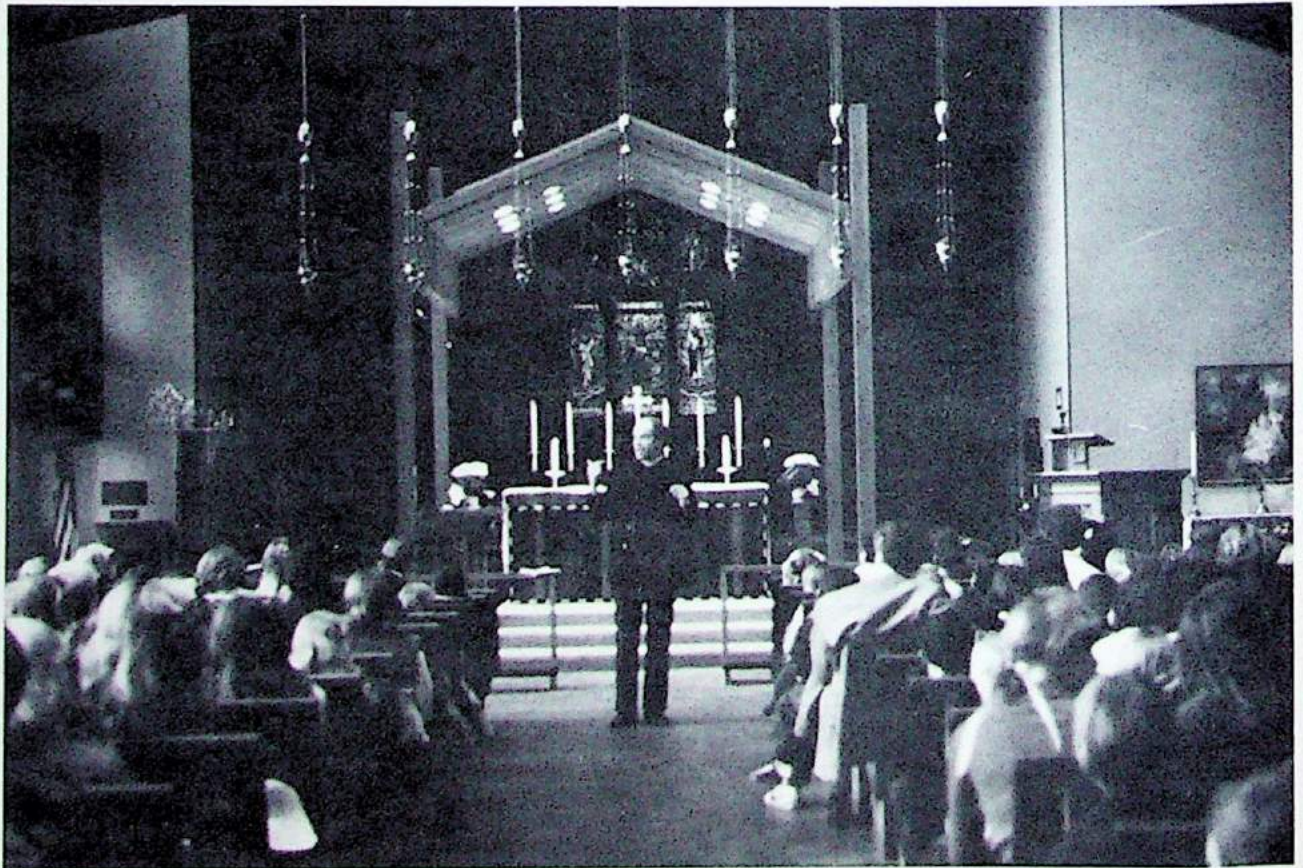

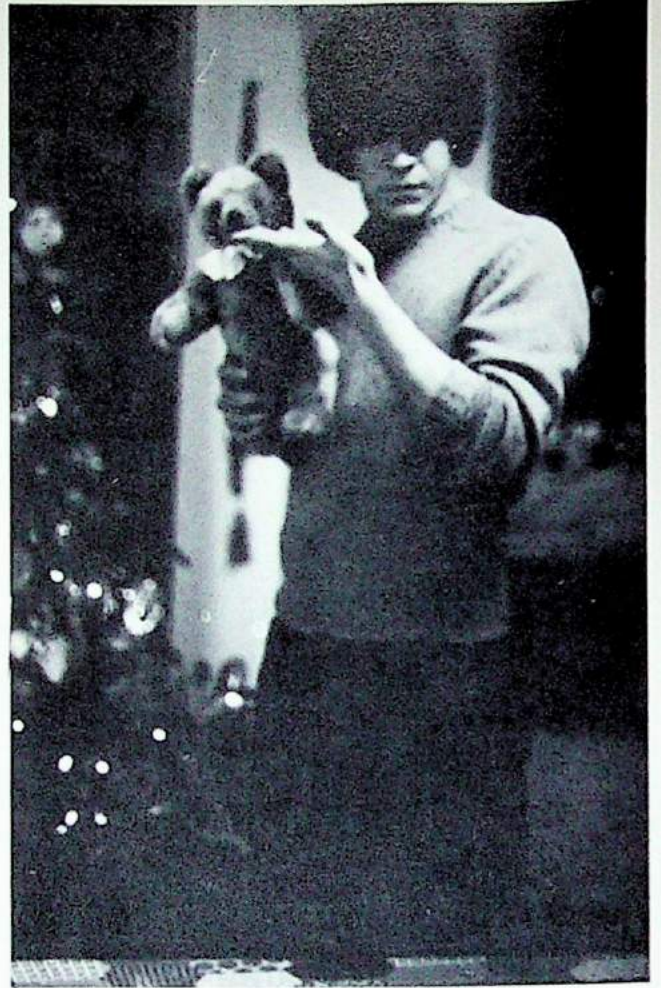

I liked the cooperation of the people. I liked the feeling of friendship between the cast and between the cast and the stage people. We all worked together well. I thought the play turned out very well. Towards the end everybody ran around like little rats but we all held together. I will never forget the "geed of dift."

For many years tradition has called for a Semi-Formal Christmas Dance put on by the Dorm Students. Part of the traditional decoration for the dance has been a Christmas tree. The students spend one morning decorating the grand ol'fir. This year the band for the Semi-Formal was "Velvet", playing a combination of funk and jazz.

The Caroling Service was held again this year after a one-year lapse. Each Upper School student was paired with a Lower School student for chapel. The group sang carols and heard a talk by Fr. Paul.

The O.E.S. Middle School is comprised of a small group of special teachers to fit the needs of each student as an individual, each with their own unique abilities.

We, the Middle School, have chosen a teacher whose special efforts and care have helped mold us into mature individuals.

So we, the Middle School, are proud to dedicate our section of the 1981 Yearbook to Mrs. Gerry Hayes.

In Memory of Billie Bootsma

Class of 1980

One important thing that I do remember and I'll never forget is my friends. I was never alone. From the minute they found out, I had someone by my side constantly. They decorated my room to make it tolerable, they threw parties for me, they waited patiently while tests were being done, and one important thing: they overcame their own fears to help me handle mine.

Billie, May 1980

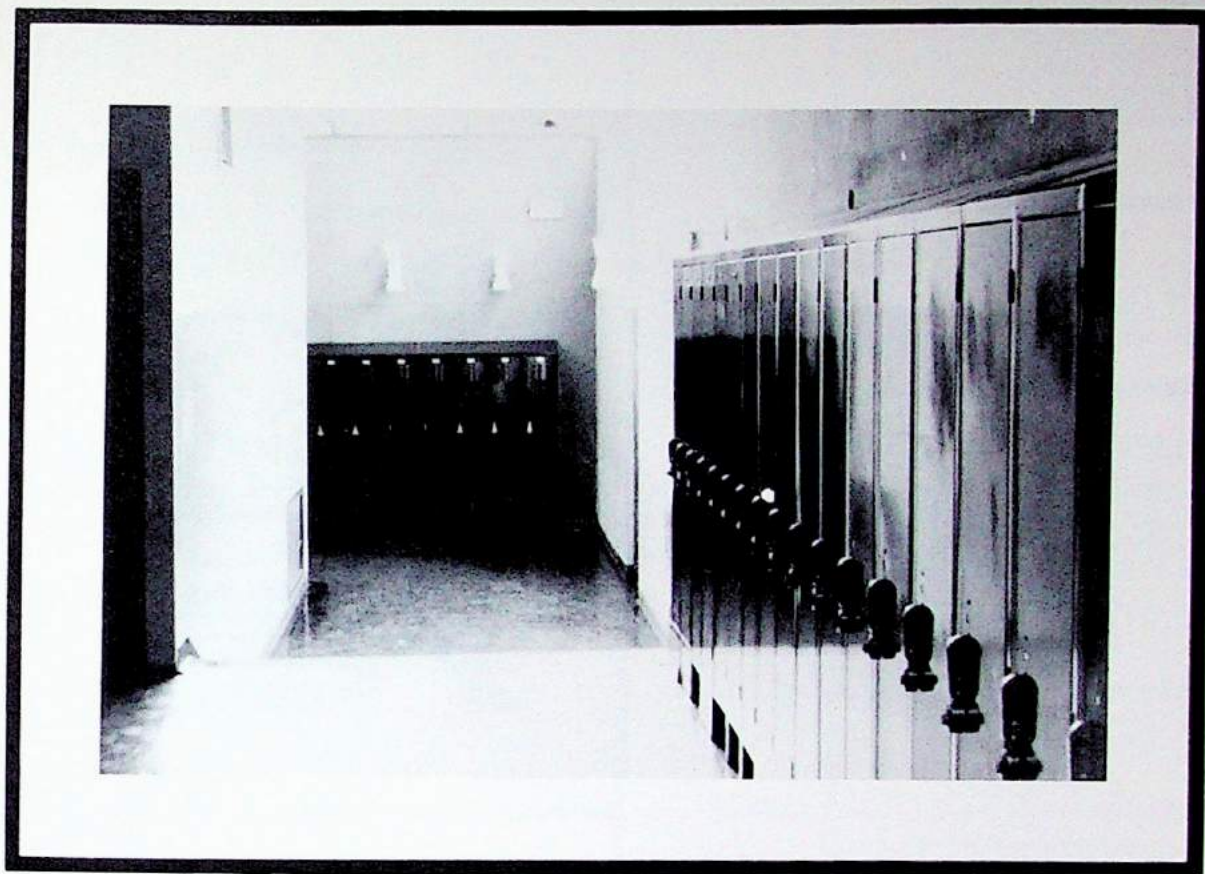

Let me not pray to be sheltered from dangers, but to be fearless in facing them.
Let me not beg for the stilling of my pain, but for the heart to conquer it.
Let me not look for allies in life's battlefield, but to my own strength.
Let me not crave in anxious fear to be saved, but hope for the patience to win my freedom.
Grant me that I may not be a coward, feeling your mercy in my success alone;
But let me find the grasp of your hand in my failure.
