EDITORIAL

As we graduate from St. Helen's Hall this year, we are slightly bewildered by the world we are going into. It is a world of war and struggle, of hate and fury. It is not a reassuring world to be graduating into. As products of a world like that, we do not have the old idea that the world is ours to do with as we please. We still believe in our own power, but it is a collective power, not an individual power. The world is ours, but only if we make it so.

We still can carve our kind of a world out of the chaos and confusion of war, but this is not going to be a pleasure. It is going to be a duty, and a severe taskmaster. Our incentive must be a Christian ideal. We must truly follow the commandment "love thy neighbor as thyself."

If we realize that sacrifices will not stop with the armistice, the battle of a just and true peace is half won. Surely a just peace is more worth our sacrifices than a bloody war.

At the Hall, we have received a Christian background for our lives. Let us use this background for the purpose for which it was intended.

"In today already walks tomorrow."
Today was built by many yesterdays;
Inside the heart there grows the endless maze,
The pulse of hope, aching mists of sorrow.
Other's memories we cannot borrow
But in our own there lies the future's haze . . .
Beloved faces, varied scenes' arrays.
"In today already walks tomorrow."
There is a beauty in that this can be,
A justice, and a helping hand to hold.
It gives to us a choice in life, to see
In present hours the future still untold.
May each of us from some old memory
Receive deep grace, and pleasant dreams unfold.

THE CHAPEL

The symbolic heart of St. Helen's Hall is its Chapel. This place of quiet and worship stands for all Christian ideals of reverence and beauty.

Every morning Matins is held, which is attended by all of the girls and the faculty. This simple service is made beautiful by the presence of generous memorial gifts such as the mother-of-pearl cross, the sanctuary lamps, the altar, and the pulpit. Our longed-for pipe organ was given to us by Mrs. Walter B. Beebe in memory of her husband. Its inspiring tones serve as a fitting remembrance of Sister Katherine Angela who revealed to us the spirit and meaning of music.

The few moments that we have in Chapel before commencing the day of studies are most helpful and are appreciated by all.

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF THE CLASS OF 1943

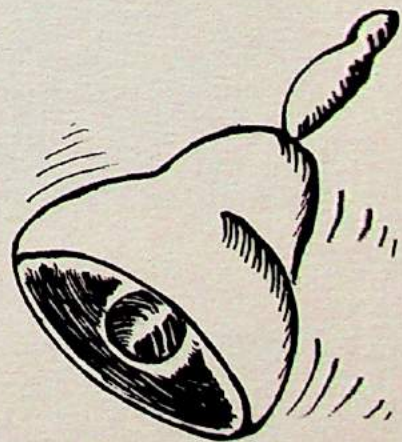

- I, Eleanor Coles, leave my barbership to some individual who possesses courage and ambition.
- I, Charlotte Fehly, leave my lucite comb to Margaret McLean.
- I, Shirley Gray, leave my sparkling enthusiasm to Patty Petheram, with the hope that she can use it somewhere.
- I, Dorothy Herman, leave my school sweater to June Downs.
- I, Nancyann Henton, leave my loud speaking voice to Edith Irvine.
- I, Sally Jeffcott, leave my curly hair and "A" cards to Sally Meyers.
- I, Beatrice King, will my solemn thoughts and tennis skill to Dede Honeyman.
- I, Pat Mann, generously refrain from leaving anything.
- I, Jane McMullen, leave my flair for finding worthy causes to anyone who wants a perpetual headache—but don't crowd, girls.
- I, Gretchen Nicolai, leave my startling lab. technique to those who wish to die young.
- I, Jane Norwood, leave my new glasses to the bombed areas that need windows.
- I, Mary Alice Serruys, leave my bad knee joint to Jo Ann Rohner.
- I, Betsy Schultze, leave my absenteeism to the war workers.
- I, Nada Skidmore, leave my absent mind to Joan Lucas in hopes that she can find it.
- I, Peggy Smith, leave my maladjustment to Suzanne Bozorth.
- I, Geneva Summersett, leave my Latin and geometry books to posterity.
- I, Elaine Taylor, leave my wonderful ability for food consumption to Joyce Taylor.
- I, Sylvia Thomas, leave my timid laughter to Alice Ashton.
- I, Pat Waters, leave this school . . . finally.
- I, Laura Zimmerman, leave my motherly concern for the vitamin consumption of the Boarders to Sally Sathe.
- We, the above signed, being of sound mind and body do hereby will our awe-inspiring dignity and solemn countenances to the class of '44.

CLASS HISTORY

The class of 1943 began back in 1931, when Sally Jeffcott, who was joined later in the year by Nada Skidmore, entered the lower school. The boarding department got its first member of the Class of '43 in 1936, when Sylvia Thomas enrolled at the Hall. From then on, the class grew rapidly and steadily until, in 1942, our list was completed by the entrance of Charlotte Fehly, Elaine Taylor, and Laura Zimmerman.

We are just an ordinary group of girls, but we have been blessed beyond measure in receiving an education which will prepare us to meet the world, and make it ours.

HIGH SCHOOL HONORS OF 1942

The Alumnae pin is awarded to the senior of good scholarship who has most actively contributed to the school life. This honor went to Charmian Kolar, and honorable mention to Lillian Johnson and Margaret Saari.

For the greatest improvement in citizenship in the boarding department, Marilyn Adair was awarded the school picture.

The medal for the best essay on a patriotic subject, awarded by the National Society of Colonial Daughters, was won this year by Carmen Miesen of the seventh grade. Certificates of merit in this contest were won by:

Marilyn Sodergren	Dorothy Mount	Sally Mae Peabody
Barbara Christopherson	Meredith Stearns	Patricia Stone

For outstanding work in the Home Nursing course, and a grade of one hundred per cent in the examination, a picture was awarded to Patricia Mann.

For loyal support and most generous cooperation in school activities, a book on art was awarded to Lillian Johnson.

The Rose City Post of the American Legion gave a certificate of merit to a student in the eighth grade who has been outstanding in honor, courage, scholarship, leadership, and service. In this school the certificate went to Barbara Christopherson.

For outstanding work in Thespians this year, a book on acting was given to Marjorie Carey.

The local chapter of Thespians admitted seven new members this year, to whom membership certificates were given:

Anne Walker	Sylvia Thomas	Nancyann Henton
Harriet French	Mary Alice Serruys	Gloria Swearingen
	Arline Wollin

The Bishop's prize for outstanding work in Sacred Studies during the year goes to Margaret Saari, whose name was also engraved on the Holford Cup. Honorable mention was given to Nancy Meyer and Harriet French.

In appreciation of loyal and generous help in accompanying both on the piano and organ during her school years, the school ring was given to Betty Peetz.

In an essay contest conducted in this school by the American Legion Auxiliary of the Rose City Post, two prizes were awarded. The first prize of five dollars went to Virginia Johnson, and the second prize of two dollars and a half, to Lillian Johnson.

The Oregon Historical Society announced four winners in its annual essay contest. Three of these winners were Hall students. The second prize went to Jane McMullen, the third to Patricia Waters, and the fourth to Nancy Meyer.

The annual gift to the girl in the boarding department who on all occasions is most helpful and courteous went this year to Betty Peetz.

Honors were awarded to those students ranking academically among the highest ten of the upper school. Names, in order of achievement, are:

Nancy Meyer	Yolanda Schultz	Patricia Waters
Betsy Parker	Charmian Kolar	Lillian Johnson
Jane McMullen	Geraldine Stout	Jane Norwood
	Harriet French

D E S P A I R

Poor little boy
 You stubbed your toe,
 And the tears that filled your eyes
 Spilled over
 As your steps led painfully to this hill.

Then you found that your knife was broken,
 And your new jacket was torn,
 And your heart was torn as well.
 You thought of your dog
 Waiting for you in heaven,
 And you wished with all your might
 That you could follow him.

Back in the valley
 You can see your mates
 Playing . . . unmindful of the woes
 That are just as overwhelming to you
 As a man's are to a man.

You fling yourself face downward,
 And clutch the mossy sod
 In protest
 Against the cruel life
 That besieges you, and crushes you.

M Y A U T U M N

Autumn is colorful, flying, maple leaves;
 It is a fire-moon rising serenely above a misty swamp;
 It is a dog frisking wildly in crisp, crackling, fallen pine needles;
 It is a warm remembrance of summer;
 A lazy river turning brown and red beside the leaves;
 A golden, giant oak curling its leaves against a hazy blue sky;
 Autumn is a memory;
 It is a melancholy faith in dreaming hopes;
 It is a fulfillment of a life nearing its end;
 It is the burning of wood-smoke curling slow, blue ribbons;
 It is the heap of leaves and the rustle of the wind, with
 Yet but a touch of winter;
 Still, late Summer makes her last bid, before the on-coming Blue Cold.
 Deep purple, golden haze—soon will it turn to an ice-blue.
 Deep autumn, a warm star, a violet haze against warm mist.
 I shall remember Autumn; it will always come back, secure.

VIRGINIA VAUGHAN V.

TO JACK

A few hours ago he laughed and talked and was alive now he is dead. One minute split in two by life and death and he is dead.

A once warm and active body now stilled by the cold hand of death as it clutches to its breast one more who died for a cause so worth fighting for.

Yes, he is dead, but he did not die in vain.

Who he was is not important, but what he stood for is. He will long live in our memories and what he fought for will be eternal in our hearts. No, we shall not forget you, Jack. May God give your courage to the many others who must die before we can again sit down to peace.

MARY ALICE SERRUYS, VI.

REGULATION DRESS

I smile and sigh while thinking of my schooldays at the Hall,
 (They were days both sad and happy, I confess.)
 But oh, the thing that bothered me the very most of all
 Was the worrisome, the troublesome, the Regulation Dress!

I oft forgot to keep the pretty blues away from brown.
 My stockings were of many different hues.
 My blouses ranged from old pique to those I wore to town,
 And I owned the very oddest kinds of shoes.

My sweaters were of woven stuffs that broke at simple touch,
 (They would catch on every splinter in the place.)
 And my skirts were soiled and wrinkled for I did not press them much
 Because I spent my time upon my face.

Now I have finished singing of my sorrow at that school,
 (And to you who read it now I'd like to stress)
 Though you may find it very hard to keep within a rule
 It will pay you well to keep the one for Regulation Dress.

JOAN WOHLBERG, III.

WASHDAY FOR NATURE

The country is washed by gentle rain.
 It cleans the houses on our lane.

The country is dried by the bright sun,
 It dries the houses one by one.

Nature does her washing in this way,
 It keeps things clean from day to day.

RUTH BERNAU, II.

FAIRIES

As I lay asleep in my little bed,
 I dreamt fairies were folding back my spread.
 The bells attached to their tiny collars
 Sparkled like gold and silver dollars.

Their dresses were made of lovely lace;
 One had the most lovely and precious face.
 Their shoes shone like glittering sparks,
 Although they danced they made no marks.

Their hair was shiny burnished gold,
 More beautiful than can ever be told.
 They make magic with their little wands.
 I think they live in the flowers in nearby ponds.

SUSAN DICK, Grade VI.

MY HOME IN THE MOUNTAINS

Where the tall pines and the sweet smelling firs
 Make wonderful homes for the squirrels and birds.

Where the happy brook runs along with a song,
 And the fish splash merrily all day long.

Where my big dogs "Captain" and "Buck"
 Rush out to wish me very good luck.

Where drowsily on the moss I lay,
 There I happily spend the day.
 This is my home in the Hills.

DRENNAN LINDSAY, Grade V.

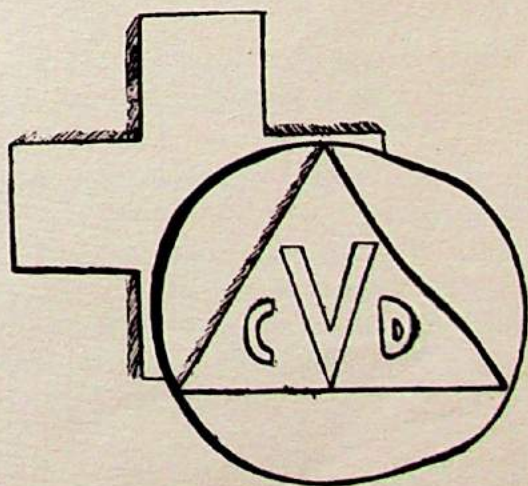

RAIN, THUNDER, AND LIGHTNING

Lightning flashed and it rained today,
 And all the children came in from play.
 The thunder roared—bang it did,
 All the blue in the sky was hid.

And then came morning bright and gay;
 The grass was green, 'twas the first of May,
 The children again go out and play,
 For now we start a brand new day.

STUDENT BODY

The past year may truly be considered a successful one in the terms of our Student Body government. The efficient management of leaders with initiative and the cooperation of their followers could only bring this about. Nada Skidmore was elected our President for the fall term, while the following students were elected to the other offices: Joan Lucas, Vice-President; Molly Clair, Secretary; Beatrice King, Treasurer; Sally Jeffcott, Senior Proctor; Susan Garrigus, Sophomore Proctor. Those elected for the spring term's activities were: Beatrice King, President; Donna Jo Short, Vice-President; Yolanda Schultz, Secretary; Sylvia Thomas, Treasurer; Pat Mann, Senior Proctor; Barbara Magnuson, Sophomore Proctor. For the fall term the Cabinet consisted of the Student Body officers, Sylvia Thomas, Vice-President of the Senior class; Jane Byerly, Vice President of the Junior class; Class Representatives: Alta June Myles, Donna Jo Short, Barbara Magnuson, Carla Rebagliati, Carter Dorwart, and the Editor of the Halltonian, Jane Norwood.

This year the Student Body energy was inevitably channeled into the defense effort. A raffle was held with enthusiasm for the purpose of donating the proceeds to the United War Chest. The Red Cross drive in March was met with the support of all the Hall students as a result of an impressive talk by Miss Louise Linthicum. Earlier in the year we were privileged to hear her speak of the vital work represented by the United War Chest. Mr. Peterson faced an attentive and receptive group when he addressed the High School and Junior College on the subject of the war's effect upon our lives as individuals. The upper classmen's knowledge of two colleges was broadened when representatives of Scripps and of Smith talked to the girls about the part college would play in the future.

In keeping with the Hall's tradition, donations were made at Thanksgiving, Christmas, and the Lenten season for the poor, perhaps less cared for than ever in their obscurity in the dark shadow of war.

Not all has been serious and strenuous, for picnics at Everglade and dances have furnished that refreshing variety so necessary for an alert, intelligent group of young people.

The school year with all its work and serious effort, its hours of pleasure, companionship, and carefree joys has come to a close. Uppermost in our minds is the thought of humble indebtedness toward those who have sacrificed their lives for the world's freedom—the freedom which has given to us our opportunity for spiritual, intellectual and social development.

W A R W O R K

In these times of war and trial by fire, the civilian population finds its attention governed by the mounting tragedy of the war. Instead of watching inertly, it is the American way to do something constructive for those in want, and our school has gone all out for civilian and foreign aid.

The Hall's official war effort this year began with the opening of the war stamp booth. This stand in the main hall has become ever popular with the girls who forego "cokes" and after-school snacks, in order to buy more stamps.

Soon after the beginning of school we had a United War Chest drive. Since this included several welfare and relief organizations there was a great response from the student body. The proceeds totaled almost one hundred dollars which was donated to the War Chest. The Red Cross War drive in March was met by individual donations from all the students.

These gifts of monetary value are indispensable, but war requires sacrifices both of time and love. Here again we of the Hall tried to do our bit.

The Art Club created dozens of Christmas cards for wounded soldiers to send to their families and friends. After the holidays the club undertook making handy writing portfolios for the use of soldiers in hospitals. The Drama Club and the Tunesters have also played their part in the war effort by contributing time and effort to prepare a program for the Tuberculosis Hospital and George White Service Center.

Several girls have completed the Staff Assistants' course given by the Red Cross. Their enthusiasm and success heartened others planning to take the course.

Many of the boarders have joined Civilian Defense organizations. Some are Fire-Watchers whose duties include extinguishing any incendiary bombs or fires in their district during an air raid. Other boarders are official messengers who deliver emergency messages that come to their districts during a blackout or any other crisis.

Our school provides special courses that help prepare students for their part in a wartorn world: First Aid, Nutrition, and Child Care. The Child Care course is far from being a theoretical science for the students gain practical experience by caring for children in the Hall's nursery school. We make it possible for mothers employed in defense industries to work by offering a home during the day for their children.

In the spring a book drive was carried through when two hundred attractive books were contributed by the student body.

January brought programs of military drill for the high school and junior college. Under the instruction of Miss Giddings, gymnasium teacher, the Junior and Senior classes were able to present a trim drill appearance during the spring months. Shirley Gray was elected Cadet Major, and four captains, Sylvia Thomas, Beatrice King, Alice Ashton, and Jane Byerly, were chosen to lead the squads.

We are all working harder and doing more work than we have previously. We are taking our work more seriously and playing less. It is just that this should be so, and we pray that any small sacrifice that we can make will hasten the end of this war of suffering and infamy.

BOARDERS' MYSTERY PLAY

The Boarders' Mystery play, a vivid portrayal of the Nativity of Christ, was presented this year in Scadding Auditorium at an afternoon performance for the Junior College, High School, and the lower grades.

Instilled in colorful tableaux was the age-old story of the Annunciation, the awe-struck shepherds, the Wise Men "aided" by Herod, and finally the full cast finale around the Bethlehem manger climaxed the cantata.

In the starring role of the Angel Gabriel was Sylvia Thomas aided by the Angel Choir. Appropriate costumes and color added the necessary atmosphere to the production.

Besides the thrill of production and learning Christmas music, the Mystery Play affords the spiritual touch without which no Christmas is complete.

MAY COURT

QUEEN: Sylvia Thomas.

PRINCESSES: Mary Alice Serruys, Beatrice King, Nada Skidmore, Eleanor Coles, Jane Norwood, Dorothy Herman.

FLOWER GIRL: Patty Lewis.

MAY FETE

This year the May Fete, a charming old tradition of St. Helen's Hall, was celebrated with its characteristic grace and dignity by a May Court made up of seven attractive seniors who were chosen by the student body.

Reigning over her subjects was Queen Sylvia I with her court, Eleanor Coles, Nada Skidmore, Jane Norwood, Dorothy Herman, Mary Alice Serruys, and Beatrice King. The royalty, clad in gay shades of aqua, pink, and yellow, contrasted effectively with green foliage in the garden where the ceremony was held.

The mistress of ceremonies, Jane Byerly, crowned Her Majesty with a wreath of blossoms. Following this, the Royal Court, the student body, and guests enjoyed original entertainment provided by the new girls. The serving of light refreshments marked the conclusion of a memorable day.

CALENDAR

"Out of sight, out of mind," could hardly express the sentiments of the Hall girls, as they look back over the year of 1942-1943.

The opening address by Father McDonald in chapel that first day, September 7, impressed us all.

Remember how everyone wondered about each other? The old girls found out the history of the new girls, and the latter merely "took in" what occurred about them.

Spirits ran high at the boarders' election on September 14, and the student body elections which followed on September 17. Class elections, not to be left behind, were held on September 24.

On the night of September 25, the boarders were primping for Hill Cadets, who were their guests at the first boarders' dance of the year.

The so-called "timid and shy" freshmen were far ahead of the rest of the classes as far as sociability went. They were the first to give a party, which was held on September 30.

Although many original costumes were seen at the traditional Old-Girl, New-Girl Party, few could compare to those in which the new girls made an appearance showing the effects of a initiation.

An assembly on October 8 introduced the United War Chest campaign. Miss Linthicum urged our support, and we responded by going "over the top".

October 15 is an extremely important date in this history, for on that day the young ladies of St. Helen's Hall threw hammers, hearts, and heads into the task of destroying two hundred desks. The national Scrap Metal Drive profited a tidy five tons from the "all-out" effort.

October 19 the Juniors had a class party at Everglade. Everyone took box lunches and had a lively time.

October 29—At a joint assembly on October 29 in the morning Mrs. Sarmiento, wife of the ex-Peruvian consul, drew such a vividly descriptive picture of that South American country that it occupied our minds for days.

The lively Freshman class had another get-together at the Bohemian Restaurant on October 31.

Juniors and Seniors, formally dressed, acted as hostesses at the annual reception for parents and teachers at Scadding Auditorium the evening of November 3.

November 9 marked the beginning of a new quarter, and also many resolutions to get "at least one A".

At the Boarders' fire-lighting ceremony on November 11, Sister Superior told the fascinating history of St. Helen's Hall.

With heads erect and not a glance behind them, the Boarding department disproved old superstitions by having a dance on Friday, the 13th!

November 17 marked the never-to-be-forgotten student body ice-skating party. Despite the hazards involved, "fun" seemed the predominating descriptive word.

Thanksgiving vacation was from November 25 to 30.

On December 7, the anniversary of our entry into the war, an assembly was held at 11:25. One minute's silence was followed by prayer, the salute to the flag, and the national anthem.

Mr. Peterson gave an effective speech to a joint assembly with the Junior College about our duty in the war effort on December 15. The Boarders gave their annual Mystery play in an afternoon assembly for the student body, instead of the usual evening presentation as in past years.

On December 17, school was dismissed for Christmas holidays.

A new school year began on January 4, when we all returned full of recollections and resolutions. Our joy was tempered, however, when we learned that Mrs. Anderson, our popular gym teacher, had left to join the Army Medical Corps.

On January 21, a pleasant surprise which lasted until January 27 released us from our studies. You guessed it, the snow that isolated all but provided plenty of merriment as compensation.

On February 5, the sociable Boarders gave a dance.

The Student Body elections were held February 18, and Bea King was presented the gavel for the remainder of the year.

The Senior Class saw "Random Harvest" on February 24, and afterwards enjoyed a banquet at Schapp's.

February 25 marked the Red Cross Victory Book Campaign party. Admission was "a book for a boy in the service". Refreshments were given by the Boarders, while the "Day Dodgers" provided us with some clever, extemporaneous entertainment.

By February 27 everyone was in a state of excitement at the big Student Body Dance. It was a riotous success.

According to a new plan, our spring vacation was divided into two long week-ends, the first of which was March 3-7.

On March 15 the Red Cross War Fund Drive started.

St. Patrick's Day, March 17, was important to the Seniors for the all-important graduation pictures were taken.

The Juniors sponsored a reading on April 15, which families and friends attended.

Seniors took advantage of a long-awaited privilege by going A.W.O.L. on May 5. However, they had no qualms as it was their legitimate Skip Day.

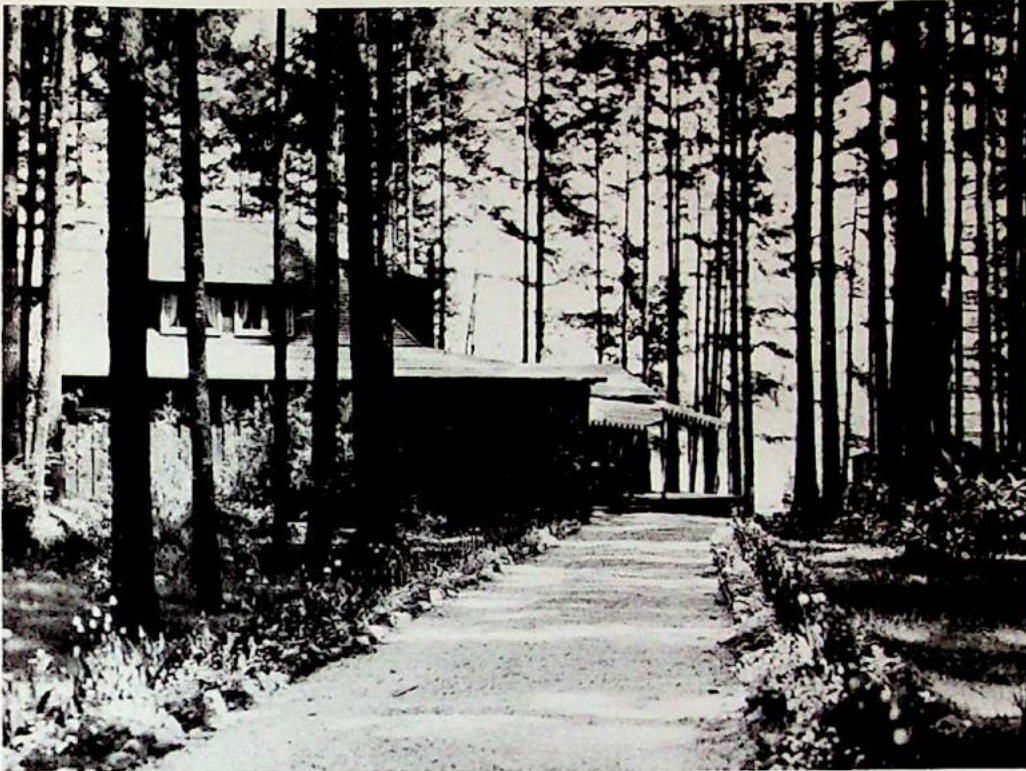

The beautiful May Fete ceremony was held on May 20. Honoring Queen Sylvia I and her princesses, the new girls entertained the Court, Student Body, and guests.

On Baccalaureate Sunday, May 23, the High School and Junior College assembled for the annual service at Trinity Church.

Following our last Commencement practice on May 27, Sister Superior entertained at a school luncheon followed by the awarding of prizes, the unveiling of the Senior Class picture, and the distribution of the Delphics.

That evening the Juniors and Seniors gathered together for their last dance, as a happy and eventful day came to its end with the lovely Junior-Senior Prom.

On a day which they will always remember, May 28, 1943, the Seniors received their diplomas with a surge of happiness, and a pang of regret at leaving their Alma Mater.

EVERGLADE

Due to the war, trips to Everglade were necessarily few and far between this year, but the fun the girls always have there was undiminished.

The big rambling house on the edge of the lake serenely bears the gaiety of the Hall parties. There are facilities for every sport; tennis, boating, swimming, ping-pong, dancing, or, if you prefer, just laziness. Never to be forgotten is the pleasure of a plunge into the clear, cool water after a vigorous game of tennis, or the ravenous consuming of hot dogs and potato salad at the outdoor fireplace.

Another scene of many happy hours is Sister Superior's beach house. On almost every week-end before Christmas, Sister took a group of Boarders to Seaside with her, and there the fortunate girls spent many fun-filled hours, free from the cares of school.

No girl who leaves the Hall will ever forget the joyous hours at Everglade and Seaside, places created for the enjoyment of the young in heart.
